Germany Expels Veteran British Correspondent

N. Ebbutt, London Times, Ordered Out; Retaliation For Expulsions From Britain

Nazis Object To Type of Articles

BERLIN (AP)—The German government has ordered out Norman Ebbutt, veteran correspondent of The Times of London, in retaliation for British expulsion of three Nazi newspapermen, it was disclosed today.

Germany also has protested the expulsion of the three Germans from Great Britain.

Ebbutt, who has been The Times correspondent here for about 15 years, was given two weeks to leave. The Times, through the British Foreign Office, was informed the Reich government wanted a Times correspondent in Berlin "who will pay less attention to work considered here as trivialities and more attention to what is important."

Since the rise of Chancellor Hitler to power, Ebbutt's articles from Germany have been widely quoted.

The British Home Office has given no explanation for expulsion of the Germans, who also were given two weeks to leave the country.

"IN RESTRAINED TERMS"

LONDON (AP)—Germany protested formally to Great Britain today against the expulsion of three Nazi newspapermen.

The three, Werner von Crome of The Berlin Lokalanzeiger, and the younger writers Franz Otto Wrede and Wolf Dietrich Langen, working for a news agency which reports news and opinions of Germans abroad, were ordered to leave England by the Home Office last week-end. There was no explanation of the order.

Dr. E. Wiegman, charge d'affaires of the German embassy, made the protest today at the Foreign Office. It was described as couched in "restrained terms."

The protest followed conferences of German diplomats at Renfrew, Scotland, where German Ambassador Joachim von Ribbentrop is on holiday.

RINGS ARE STOLEN

VANCOUVER (CP)—A. A. Ross reported to police his home had been broken into Saturday and two rings valued at $225 each stolen. A ladder was used to gain entry, he said.

Toronto Youths In Wild B.C. Interior

Fifty Students to Paddle Down Peace River From Finlay Forks

FINLAY FORKS, B.C. (CP)—Second stage of a triangular tour of 50 Upper Canada College youths from Toronto through wild bushlands of interior British Columbia and Alberta was at a successful conclusion here today after a 140-mile paddle down the Parsnip River from Summit Lake.

Equipped with 86 pack and saddle horses and guides, the expedition set out from Wembley, Alberta, July 7 and trekked 240 miles across the Rockies to Bend, B.C.

On the second lap the party under direction of Count Nicholas Ignatieff abandoned horse transport and embarked on the Parsnip River in four 32-foot boats. During the week-long voyage to Finlay Forks, the paddlers found excellent fishing and paused to try gold-panning on sand bars. They arrived here Sunday.

From this interior settlement about 400 miles northwest of Edmonton, the boys will paddle down the Peace River to the town of Peace River, where they will entrain for Edmonton and Toronto.

KEIJO, Korea (AP)—More than 300 persons were reported Monday to have been killed and 150 injured in floods in northern Korea. Almost 2,700 homes have been washed away or demolished by the force of the waters.

MADE FLYING WORLD TOUR

Chris Spencer Says Airways Only Travel Way For Businessman

"Flying is the only modern means of travel for the busy business man," states Chris Spencer, president of David Spencer Ltd., who reached Victoria today by the Empress of Russia after a world tour mostly by airplane.

"I traveled practically everywhere by air, with the exception of the Atlantic and Pacific Oceans, and I must say I like it," said Mr. Spencer.

"I would not advise it for the tourist, however, for there are no stopovers."

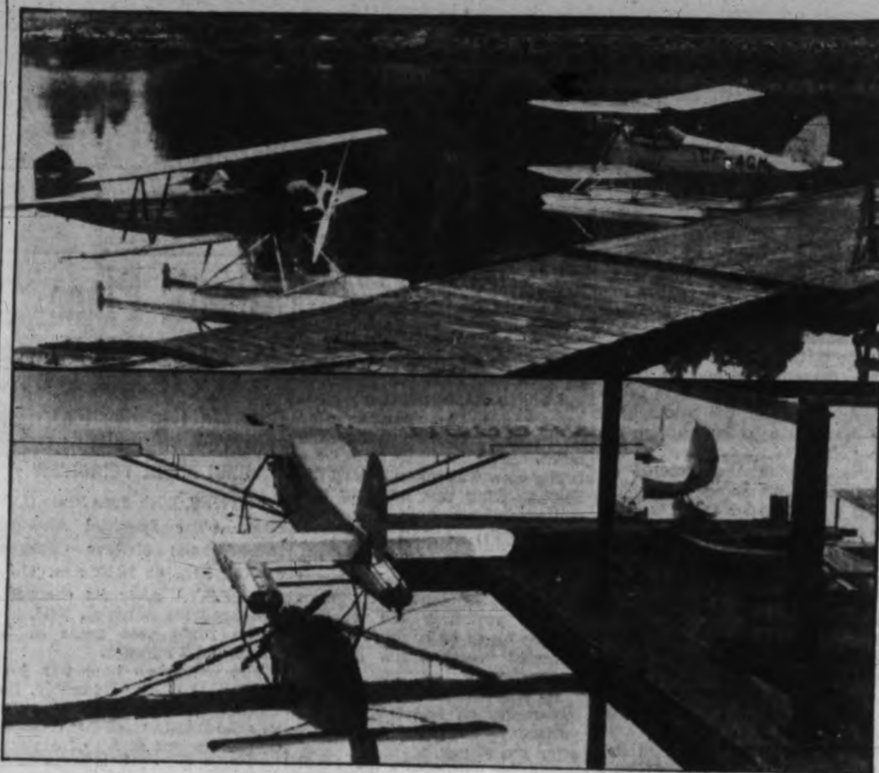

Four months ago, on March 30, Mr. Spencer left Vancouver on his world tour and, after witnessing the Coronation from a seat in Westminster Abbey, he crossed to Europe and spent two weeks in Germany and a week in Paris. He flew from London in the new Imperial Airways ship Capella as far as Alexandria, where he boarded another plane and proceeded via Iraq, Persia, India and Siam to Hongkong.

More French In Ontario Schools

LAKE COUCHICHING, Ont. (CP)—The Ontario Department of Education intends to change the teaching of the French language in schools so pupils may learn to use it for practical conversation, Dr. Duncan McArthur, deputy minister of education, declared here Sunday in addressing the Canadian Institute of economics and politics. He told the Geneva Park conference he expected no opposition to bilingualism.

Seaplanes Race From Here With War Pictures

When it comes to quick dispatch of trans-Pacific pictures, mails and passengers Victoria is the key position. This morning the C.P.R. liner Empress of Russia arrived from Oriental ports with movies and still photographs of the Japanese-Chinese clash in China. Three seaplanes slipped into Esquimalt Harbor early today and as quickly as possible the photographs were transferred to the planes and they roared away on the return trip in a race to Seattle. The above pictures show the three Seattle seaplanes and a fourth seaplane which was tied up at the Esquimalt float.

One Japanese and One Chinese Killed; Barricades Thrown Up

SHANGHAI (AP)—The Chinese Peace Preservation Corps barricaded roads leading to the Chinese areas around excited Shanghai Monday night after a clash in which one Chinese soldier and one Japanese were killed.

The clash came as Japanese refugees evacuating the Yangtze Valley and other central Chinese areas poured into Shanghai.

The Kiangwan area on the northern fringe of Shanghai, scene of major Japanese-Chinese fighting in 1932, was rapidly closed off.

Members of the Peace Preservation Corps—(militarized police)—patrolled the roads armed with rifles and hand grenades, and heaped up sandbag barricades.

The Kiangwan and Chapei areas, on the north and northwest, border Japanese military headquarters, the Japanese community and the northern edge of the International Settlement.

Chinese said Monday night's clash came when a Japanese marine motor truck attempted to enter the Chinese government's Hungjiao airdrome in the western environs of the city.

Sentries challenged the truck.

Last Warning To Motorists

Provincial Police today issued a final warning to motorists who persist in holding the road when they hear a police car on emergency call with its siren sounding.

Yesterday, while officers were rushing to the scene of a bad accident on the Malahat they reported that local motorists refused to give them the right-of-way, an offence which hereafter will result in prosecution.

The officers reported that all American cars on the highway immediately pulled to one side to allow the police car to pass, but local motorists went merrily on without heeding.

Such a delay, they pointed out, might mean the difference between life and death.

Great Britain Sends Protest To Franco

Planes' Bombing of Ss. Corporal in Mediterranean Arouses Press

LONDON (CP-Havas)—Instructions to protest to the Spanish insurgent regime at Salamanca against the bombing of the tanker British Corporal off the coast of Algeria last Friday, have been sent to Sir Henry Chilton, British ambassador stationed at Hendaye, France, it was learned today.

All newspapers were indignant over the Mediterranean bombings, which involved French and Italian merchant vessels as well as the British ship. The captain of the 6,113-ton Italian Ss. Monoglia was killed.

Sir Henry's protest direct to Gen. Franco will be identical to that delivered to the insurgent authorities at Palma, Mallorca, by Rear-Admiral L. V. Wells.

Newspapers of all shades of political opinion joined in condemning the attacks.

"Piracy" was the heading over an editorial in The London Times which suggested that the interested powers should combine to stamp out the "modern corsairs."

C.N.R. HEAD IS VISITOR

S. J. Hungerford and Party of Rail Officials on Brief Visit to Victoria

On his first visit to Victoria in two years, S. J. Hungerford, chairman and president of the Canadian National Railways and president of the newly organized Trans-Canada Air Lines, arrived this afternoon for a call of 10 hours.

With the president, who reached Vancouver this morning from the north aboard the Ss. Prince Rupert, were two members of his board of directors, B. L. Daly of Winnipeg, and R. J. Moffatt of Bradwell, Sask.

The party came to Victoria on the Ss. Princess Marguerite and will leave the city at midnight for the mainland.

The Men's Canadian Club had invited Mr. Hungerford to address it during his stay here, but he replied that pressure of business would not give him time.

INSPECTS PROPERTY

After a rest at the hotel Mr. Hungerford left for an inspection of local properties of the Canadian National Railways, including the Ogden Point Piers and the Point Ellice terminal.

On his present trip Mr. Hungerford has been into the mining areas of northern Manitoba, the prairie wheat lands and has discussed at many points the new Air Lines which will shortly link Canada from Atlantic to Pacific.

In Victoria this afternoon he called at the City Hall to tender to the mayor and council his company's congratulations on the city's 75th birthday.

Other members of the president's party are A. E. Warren, vice-president of western lines, Winnipeg; W. T. Moodie, general superintendent in British Columbia, Vancouver; G. A. McNicholl, general passenger agent, Vancouver; J. M. McRae, general freight agent; H. A. Dixon, chief engineer, western region; M. A. Metcalf, assistant to the president, Montreal; W. S. Thompson, director of publicity, Montreal, and J. J. Thornton, press representative at Vancouver.

BIG BATTLE IN NORTH SPAIN

Insurgents Launch "Final Offensive" in Asturias Region

HENDAYE, Franco-Spanish Frontier (AP)—Gen. Francisco Franco's northern forces today launched what insurgent officers called their "final offensive" against the provinces of Asturias and Santander, last government strongholds in north Spain.

Insurgent planes and artillery combined in an attack on government defence positions as deadly as the fire poured on the ironing of fortifications protecting Bilbao before the Basque capital fell last June.

At the same time, Spanish government forces pushed their Albaracin lines in northeast Spain forward and dug entrenchments to block an insurgent threat to the Cuenca-Teruel highway, key to Madrid's communications with the east coast and Valencia.

FACTIONS FIGHT

Internal fighting was reported on both sides.

Government advisers declared hundreds of insurgent lives were lost in mutinies at Toledo, Granada, Motril, Aguilas, de Campo and other places.

Tourists' Clothes Taken By Thieves

Three Men Return to Portland After Experience in Vancouver

VANCOUVER (CP)—Three Portland, Ore., men sped home in their automobile today clad in Vancouver police department coveralls with varied opinions concerning tourist treatment in this city.

After viewing the city sights, Lewis Hodes, Don Sanders and Dick Giger drove into Stanley Park Saturday night prepared to sleep under a balmy summer sky.

Sunday morning they appeared at police headquarters clad only in underwear and socks, and reported theft of their clothes and some $17.

After vowing they would return the police garments when they found new clothing at home, the three men were decked out in the coveralls.

Holed from stem to stern as she rests on the jagged reefs at Cape Beale, the "graveyard of the Pacific" on the west coast of Vancouver Island, the Greek freighter Nereus which piled up in the fog yesterday morning, was considered by salvage experts today a total constructive loss.

Capt. John Katalanos and 35 members of the crew are safe aboard the Ss. Salvage King of the Pacific Salvage Company Limited, and will be brought to Victoria by the salvage ship tonight.

Missing the entrance to Barkley Sound as she was awaiting a pilot to take her to Port Alberni, the Nereus struck the reefs 1,000 feet from the lighthouse and fog signal at Cape Beale at 7:20 Sunday morning.

Water began to pour into the engine-room of the freighter almost immediately.

Pachena Point direction finding station picked up the ship's distress calls and phoned the Banfield life-saving station.

LIFEBOAT TO RESCUE

Banfield motor lifeboat put out in charge of Coxswain P. H. V. Brady and, on reaching the wreck, found that two boats had been launched from the Nereus. There were 28 men in the two boats with their dunnage and they were towed by the lifeboat to Banfield.

Turning right around, the lifeboat returned to the wreck and stood by until after Salvage King, which left here at 10 yesterday morning, arrived at the scene about 7.

The captain, first and second officers, chief and second engineers and wireless operator remained on board.

Fortunately the sea was calm and the crew and their belongings were transferred to the boats without danger.

It was clear that the vessel was doomed as the heavy Pacific swell pounded her on the reefs.

The rescued members of the crew, 26 Greeks and two Finns, presented a sorry spectacle as they were landed at Banfield. They squatted about the lifeboat station surrounded by the belongings they had been able to save from the ship, some idly strumming steel guitars. They talked in the Greek tongue and managed to express a few English words of thanks to Banfield people who fed them while they waited to learn what they would do next.

Steward of Prairie Thoroughbred Breeders Says Drugs Used

EDMONTON (CP)—Eight men, all of whom have trained horses in Edmonton and Calgary, have been suspended for 60 days, dating from August 8, according to an announcement made by E. D. Adams, president steward of the Prairie Thoroughbred Breeders' Association.

The suspensions are the direct result of saliva tests taken during the exhibition race meetings at Calgary and Edmonton. The president steward, in his statement, alleges that certain horses, trained by the eight men in question, were stimulated in certain races by the use of drugs.

The men suspended by Mr. Adams are: George Owen, H. Rohl, H. D. Allen, C. Simpson, J. G. Weatherby, W. Thompson, D. Eurand and P. P. Comisford.

U.S. Warships In China Waters

WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States navy announced today that the proposed goodwill visit of the flagship Augusta and four destroyers of the Asiatic fleet to Japanese ports had been definitely postponed.

No reason was given for the postponement, but a responsible source said the government wished to keep the five warships in waters near the strife-torn Peking, China, area, for potential protection of United States interests.

Governor's Flight Ends At Edmonton

Lord Tweedsmuir and Party Return From Arctic Coast

EDMONTON (CP)—Completing his expedition by land, water and air from Edmonton to the Arctic Ocean and return, Lord Tweedsmuir, Canada's exploring Governor-General, is scheduled to arrive at the Edmonton seaplane base, Cooking Lake, at 5 p.m., today, according to a dispatch received by A. S. Redfern, his secretary here.

After visiting Aklavik on the steamer Distributor, Mackenzie River transport boat, Lord Tweedsmuir has been flying in R.C.A.F. airplanes. Winged south to Fort Norman, then eastward over Great Bear Lake, he visited the radium properties of Eldorado Gold Mines at Cameron

Bay and other mineral fields of the north.

FROM GREAT BEAR

FORT SMITH, N.W.T. (CP)—Lord Tweedsmuir's party landed here at 8:30 Sunday night after a long flight from Eldorado, in the Great Bear Lake country, which included stops at Fort Rae and Gordon Lake.

The two Royal Canadian Air Force airplanes, bringing the Governor-General and his party back to Edmonton, dodged rain squalls on the three-hour flight between Eldorado and the fur trade post at Fort Rae, alighting on shallow, muddy water to refuel. The church bells rang out as the Governor-General stepped ashore to meet the townspeople.

The party was then flown on a compass course over a 60-mile area which is marked on charts "unmapped, many lakes."

Demonstration In Berlin Suburb

Trial of Pastor Niemoller
Postponed After Church
Members' Protest

BERLIN (AP)—Trial of Rev. Martin Niemoller, Protestant confessional leader, was postponed today after several hundred churchgoers had paraded in the streets of suburban Dahlem against a ban on prayer meetings for the "rebel pastor."

Niemoller was to have gone on trial tomorrow charged with resistance to Nazi church policy.

The eleventh-hour postponement was explained cryptically in official quarters as due "to the necessity for further examination of the evidence" against the wartime submarine commander.

Church circles, however, envisaged the delay as the aftermath of the passionate outburst of resentment by Niemoller's congregation in Dahlem.

Protestant churches had arranged to toll their bells when the trial began as a city-wide beckoning to prayer meetings for the pastor.

During the parade Sunday evening police arrested, but later released, 110 demonstrators who marched through the streets.

The parade was believed to be the first public mass demonstration against any measure taken by the government under Nazi rule—(Nazis permit no open opposition).

Several hundred members of the Dahlem Church started down the streets after learning police had forbidden a prayer service for Niemoller which was to follow the regular Sunday evening sermon.

Prohibition of the prayer service was announced from the Dahlem pulpit Sunday morning.

LIVES SAVED BY MINE DEVICE

Inspector Gives Credit to Hoist Equipment in Pit
Near Princeton, B.C.

PRINCETON, B.C. (CP)—Safety equipment on the hoist in the Copper Mountain Mine near here saved 17 lives when a broken king bolt in the clutch mechanism plummeted the cage 400 feet down its shaft last Thursday.

The breaking action of the safety device, affixed to the hoist, reduced the drop to an equivalent of 25 to 30 feet, said Chief Inspector of Mines James Dickson as he concluded a two-day examination of the accident.

Meanwhile the hoist at the mine has been dismantled, and the manufacturers of the safety device will send an expert to examine the apparatus and ascertain why it did not work immediately.

No criticism could be placed for the broken bolt which shot the loaded cage downwards, the inspector said, nor was overload the cause of the near-disaster, as the cable had a breakage strain of 50 tons.

Dr. Dickson said the accident was the first of its kind on record, although there had been several cases of falling cages, due generally to broken cables.

Any official statement would come from the Minister of Mines, the inspector said. He did not think it likely an inquiry would be held.

Insurgents reported street battles between anarchists and members of the P.O.U.M., dissolved Trotskyist organization of Spanish Communists, in Barcelona.

The French rightist press declared that more than 30 leaders of Barcelona political groups had vanished recently, leaving Catalan leftists in a state of chaos. A Perpignan, French newspaper, said Francisco Largo Caballero, extreme Socialist and former premier, was extremely critical of the present Spanish government and its conduct of the war.

Largo Caballero has a large following.

LOUD SPEAKERS

MADRID (AP)—The Spanish government began a "loud-speaker" offensive against Gen. Franco's troops on all fronts today.

The government set up scores of new loud speakers, heavily fortified, in places where "no man's land" fronts are narrowest.

Broadcasters' speeches urged insurgent Spaniards to prevent "invasion of their country by Germans and Italians," and to choose "republicanism over dictatorship" by deserting to the government lines.

Part of this propaganda included accounts of uprisings and demoralization of insurgent forces behind the lines.

Government spokesmen said the broadcasts were increasingly successful, and for a time, not a day has passed without at least one Spaniard crossing to the government lines on most fronts.

CLASH EXCITES SHANG- HAI AS FORCES MASS IN NORTH

marines but they refused to halt. Then the Chinese opened fire.

Even at the time of the new clash, responsible circles said the Japanese army apparently believed the time had come for peace negotiations with China, on the Japanese army's own terms.

NO OFFICIAL STATEMENT

One Chinese version of the airport incident said two Japanese and one Chinese were killed. The Japanese did not issue an official statement on the affair.

Another report was that a Japanese officer and a private drove up to the airfield and demanded permission to enter. The Chinese sentry was said to have refused, and to have killed the private when the pair attempted to force their way in.

Then, it was reported, the officer leaped from the car, ran into the field, and returned the Chinese fire, only to fall before Chinese bullets.

Japanese troops, following a policy of caution, refrained from a display of force after the incident.

Light Japanese-Chinese skirmishing also was reported from the north, 30 miles south of Tientsin, between Japanese cavalry and Chinese outposts.

GIVE TROOPS REST

NANKING (AP)—A Japanese embassy spokesman said Monday a Japanese brigade had entered Peiping merely to "give the troops a rest and assist the Chinese in maintaining order."

The spokesman's assurance that the move was not an extension of Japanese influence in North China was given little credence among Chinese, who interpreted it as part of a carefully-planned military programme to take over Hopeh province.

MAY USE FORCE

TOKIO (AP)—General Gen Sugiyama, Japanese war minister, said Monday that unless China ceases moving troops to the Hopeh province area "we will be obliged to use force."

The Chinese, he said, are following the "worst possible course," adding:

"Unless China awakens to the situation, Sino-Japanese relations face an even graver crisis. China not only has broken her promises, but continues to advance troops toward Hopeh."

"If the situation continues we must resort to force."

ARMY IN PEIPING

TIENTSIN (AP)—The Japanese army completed its conquest of northeastern Hopeh province Monday while Japanese administrators moved slowly toward establishment of a permanent civil government in the rich Chinese region.

A Japanese brigade of 3,000 men marched into the city of Peiping Sunday with 50 trucks, 10 heavy and five light tanks and considerable cavalry, took the ancient capital of China's Manchou emperors under its protection and made it, for all practical purposes, a Japanese city.

The Japanese troops, commanded by Maj. Gen. T. Kawabe, paraded along the boulevards and under arches of triumph that proclaimed imperial China's glories. Then the various units deployed throughout the city, taking up their garrison duties.

In Tientsin, army headquarters of the Japanese who have wrested northeastern Hopeh from Chinese troops in a month of undeclared war, the judiciary, police and communication administrations were brought under complete Japanese control. The Japanese co-commissioner of the Chinese salt monopoly announced he had taken charge of the Tientsin administration district, including the Changlu salt fields, one of the richest in China.

"PEACE SOCIETIES"

The municipal governments of Peiping and Tientsin, formerly under the control of the Chinese cabinet at Nanking, have been placed in the hands of the Japanese-formed and supported "peace preservation societies."

Their aim, like the Hopeh-Chahar provincial advisory committees, is to "register opposition to the advance of troops of the Chinese government into Hopeh and maintain friendly relations with Japan."

The usefulness of Tientsin's mayor, Gen. Chang Tzu-chung, as a wedge to split the armed opposition to the Japanese advance has ended and he is being allowed to retire. This enables the Japanese to change the Hopeh-Chahar Political Council—established by the Nanking government—to the advisory committees to which the Japanese have appointed survivors of the mandarin class under the Manchou emperors.

KANG TEH WATCHED

There was speculation as to whether the new regime was paving the way for the last of that line, Hsuan Tung, the former boy Emperor, to return to the dragon throne. Since 1934 Japan has maintained him as the Emperor Kang Teh on the throne of Manchukuo.

The tactics used in establishing the current regime, Chinese charged, are identical with those used in changing the government of Manchuria to Manchukuo before Kang Teh was placed on the throne. Chinese speculated on the possibility Kang Teh might rule a combined Manchukuo and north China from Peiping.

Tokio (CP-Havas)—Fifty trainloads of Chinese troops have passed through Tsinan, capital of Shantung province, bound northward toward Tientsin during the last few days, Japanese press dispatches reported Monday.

Troops were also being moved northward via the Grand Canal, the reports said.

It was officially reported that Japanese evacuation of the central China valley, unprecedented since the evacuation of British nationals and other foreigners in the spring of 1927, was now completed.

Escorted by Japanese gunboats, Japanese residents of Wu-chang, Hankow, Changsha, Klu-chang, Chingkiang and other Yangtze River towns have arrived at Shanghai and are there awaiting repatriation, it was announced.

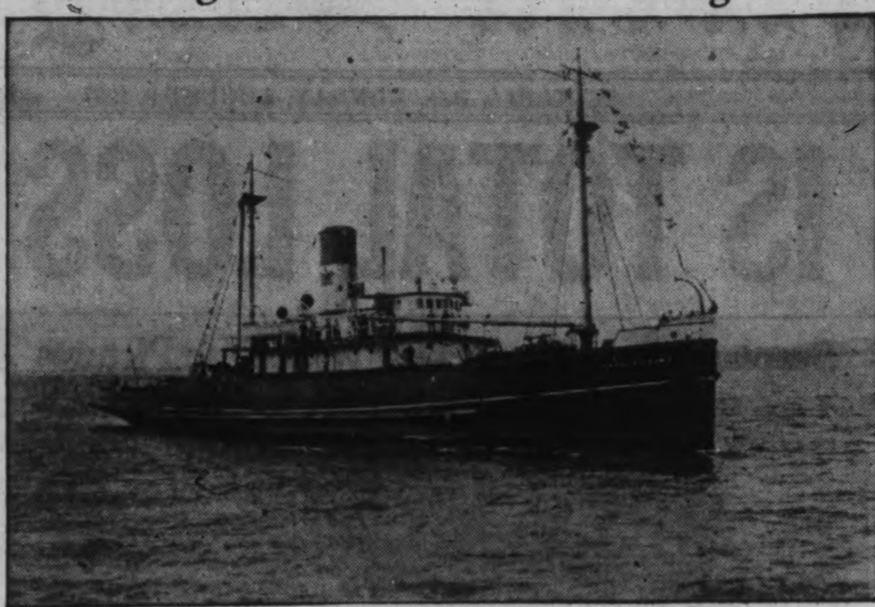

A Nanking message said this step had apparently "shocked" the Chinese authorities, who were impressed by the gravity with which Japan evidently regards the situation. It was pointed out during the invasion of Manchuria six years ago Japanese residents were withdrawn from only a few places.

Evacuation, explained a Foreign Office spokesman, however, was prompted by the desire not to aggravate the situation since any untoward incident could occur so long as large Japanese communities remained in exposed positions. They also feared another "Tungchow massacre," the spokesman said. (A large proportion of the Japanese community of Tungchow were slain two weeks ago.)

Japanese residents have likewise been withdrawn from Canton, Swatow and other towns of south China, although the Japanese male population of Amoy is staying on.

The Shanghai correspondent of the Yomiuri Shimbun said anti-Japanese war fever was sweeping China, with the anti-Japanese boycott being rigidly enforced.

Brings Crew of Nereus Here Tonight

SS. SALVAGE KING

SS. NEREUS IS TOTAL LOSS OFF CAPE BEALE

Miss Irma Jennings directed Banfield residents for the feeding of the shipwrecked mariners and arrangements were made for their accommodation for the night.

The crew was taken aboard the Salvage King this morning and will reach here about 10 tonight.

SHROUDED IN FOG

R. E. Pilcher, keeper of the Cape Beale lighthouse, reported over the long-distance telephone at 4:50 yesterday the weather was so foggy he couldn't see the stranded vessel a few hundred yards distant.

He heard the Nereus blowing, apparently on her course early yesterday morning and again after she struck.

The fog lifted for a while during the day and the ship at the then low-tide seemed on an even keel. She was in among the rocks and reefs, however. Her position serious.

Calm weather prevailed all day, a light wind blowing from the southwest.

The 6,694-ton vessel held fast through the day, her hull punctured as the Pacific swell hammered her. She was listed to starboard.

The Nereus, from Kobe, Japan, struck well in among the rocks and reefs at the foot of Cape Beale lighthouse. She was attempting to approach the pilot station to pick up a pilot for Port Alberni, where she was expected to load lumber.

WILL BREAK UP

W. G. Jordan, superintendent of the Pacific Salvage Company, who went out on the Salvage King in charge of salvage operations, said in a message received here that the first storm would break up the Nereus.

Other vessels which went to the aid of the Nereus, apart from the Salvage King and Banfield lifeboat, were the tug Snohomish of the Island Tug and Barge Company and the United States coast-guard cutter Redwing. The Redwing, however, put back to Port Angeles.

After landing the crew here tonight the Salvage King will return to the wreck tomorrow with Capt. T. C. Warkman, of the London Salvage Association, who will conduct a survey for the underwriters.

The Nereus is a vessel of 6,161 gross and 4,071 net tons and is registered at Syra, Greece. She was built in 1913 as the Booraa and before going to her present owners was known as the Palaz.

The Nereus had an unlucky break in these waters. She put back to this port on October 14 last with a fire in her bunkers.

A non-intervention control agent from the Netherlands who was aboard one of the bombed vessels, the Mongolia, was convinced the attacking plane belonged to the insurgents, The Times recalled.

RETURN FOR KINDNESS
This attack on an Italian ship, the newspaper said, was a "curious return for kindnesses received. The British government, The Times added, seemed to be in no doubt as to the allegiance of the airman.

The Times said there was clearly a strong case for authorizing war vessels of all interested nations "to fire on any airplanes actually seen by them to be firing at merchant ships."

Gen. Franco and his lieutenants "have learned to take no notice of protests from Great Britain," said The London Daily Herald, Labor organ.

Atlantic Plane At Irish Port

Cambria Reaches Foynes
From Newfoundland; German
Flight Tomorrow

FOYNES, Irish Free State (CP-Havas)—The Imperial Airways trans-Atlantic airliner Cambria arrived here at 10:32 a.m. (1:32 a.m., P.S.T.) after its eastward crossing from Botwood, Nfld.

The flight was made in 12 hours and 2 minutes.

The Cambria's time was just under that of her sister ship, the Caledonia, on a similar flight and was the fastest west-east crossing of the current series of exploratory hops over the Atlantic being made by British and United States planes. Her average speed was 168 miles an hour.

During the early morning the Cambria altered her course in order to avoid a storm from which lightning flashes could be seen.

GERMAN FLIGHT

LUEBECK, Germany (AP)—Final preparations were being made today for the start—possibly tomorrow—of German survey flights looking to the establishment of a north-Atlantic air service.

It will be the first of eight projected flights to New York by the 16-ton seaplanes Nordener and Nordwind by way of Lisbon, Portugal, and the Azores.

Flight Captain Joachim Blumke, veteran of many crossings of the south Atlantic air lanes, will be in command of the crew of four.

SERVICE DELAYED

MELBOURNE, Australia (CP-Havas)—Opening of the new air mail service between London and Sydney, scheduled for January, will be delayed until June, it was reported here today, owing to wireless difficulties.

Court to Decide Child's Future

Donald Temporarily Given to Horsts in Chicago While Adoption Argued

CHICAGO (AP)—The foster parents of Baby Donald Otto Horst won a court order for his temporary custody today after they had filed a formal petition to adopt him.

County Judge Edmund K. Parecki agreed to permit the child to be taken from an orphanage and returned to his "mummy" late today as soon as the Horsts could post a $2,500 bond.

In starting consideration of the adoption petition Judge Parecki said he would conduct a careful investigation of little Donald's real and foster parents before making his final decision.

First, he said, the court would inquire into the fitness of the two-and-a-half-year-old boy's real mother, Miss Lydia Nelson, and father, John Regan, and then investigate the past of the foster parents, Otto and Martha Horst, from whose home the child was removed in a surprise raid last week.

On Saturday Miss Nelson signed papers consenting to adoption of Donald by the Horsts.

Portfolio Taken By Aberhart

Alberta Premier Also Fills
Post of Attorney-General

EDMONTON (CP)—Premier Aberhart today took over, automatically, the office of Attorney-General, made vacant by the enforced resignation of Hon. J. W. Huggill. The Premier will head the department until a permanent appointment is made.

Mr. Huggill is en route to Toronto to attend the Canadian Bar Association meeting and on his return, about mid-September, will formally vacate office. Reports persist that Hon. Lucian Maynard, young Minister of Municipal Affairs, will be his successor.

EDMONTON (CP)—Attorney-General J. W. Huggill's resignation from the Alberta Social Credit cabinet was requested because he had "felt himself out of harmony with the movement," Premier Aberhart stated Sunday.

"For some time it had been apparent that Mr. Huggill felt himself out of harmony with the movement," the Premier said.

"The welfare of the people and the cause we represent demand the displacement of those in authority who find it impossible to give 100 per cent service in the performance of their functions," the Premier added.

"In view of these fundamental principles I had no alternative but to act as I have done."

MADE FLYING WORLD TOUR

He made the trip from London to Hongkong in nine days.

After a brief stay of four days in Hongkong, Mr. Spencer flew from the British station with the intention of going to Peiping, but on reaching Tientsin he was forced to leave the plane because of the situation created by the troop movements in the North China area.

Mr. Spencer declined to discuss the war developments in North China, except briefly stating that people further away from the scene appeared to be more fully posted on what was happening than those on the spot.

"I was informed by one authority," said Mr. Spencer, "that the invasion by Japan was part of a definite plan to create an autonomous state in North China. Another said that neither side wanted war; that there would be no real war, and that what was happening at the present time were mere local incidents."

There was no real alarm in Shanghai when he left, Mr. Spencer said. Refugees were pouring out of Peiping, but even in Tientsin, where he remained five days, there were no signs of undue alarm.

Business was being carried on as usual at the treaty ports.

Asked his views on the European situation, Mr. Spencer, who visited Germany, France and Italy, said it was difficult to form an opinion by merely passing through those countries. Business was going on normally in spite of all the war talk.

EMPIRE SOLIDITY

In viewing the Coronation ceremony from the inside of Westminster Abbey, Mr. Spencer, in referring to the impressiveness of the spectacle, said the most outstanding figure, in his opinion, was the Queen Mother Mary.

He believed that the Coronation, drawing as it did representatives from every part of the British Commonwealth of Nations, would have the effect of solidifying the Empire. He spoke of the special attention paid to the Empire's representatives.

"They were eager to sit back and let the people from overseas occupy the prominent places," he said.

The Social Credit experiment in Alberta is not being taken seriously in Great Britain, Mr. Spencer observed. It was not hurting Canada, he said. The British financiers looked upon it as an experiment and were watching to see how it worked out.

Mr. Spencer looked particularly fit and said he had greatly enjoyed the long tour. He was glad, however, to be back.

British Columbia never looked better to him than it did today. He proceeded by liner to Vancouver after conferring with J. W. Spencer here.

Edward Clarkson Dies in Toronto

TORONTO (CP)—Edward Clarkson, 48, of Toronto, president of the Canadian Federation of the Blind for the past five years, died Saturday at his home here. He had been in poor health for some months. His fatal illness began Thursday when he suffered a stroke.

Born in Leeds, England, he came to Canada in 1911. Afflicted with blindness himself, Mr. Clarkson had been keenly interested in the welfare of Canadian blind people.

Mr. Bennett Carries On

IT COMES AS NO SURPRISE THAT MR. Bennett is to remain as leader of the Conservative Party. The matter of his health had given himself and the party concern during recent months. But the examinations he underwent at the hands of medical experts during his visit to England have assured him of his physical ability to carry on.

Although there has been criticism within the party of his "one-man-rule" tendencies and although the party is at a low ebb throughout the country, there has been no one on the horizon to succeed him in the leadership. It was thus with relief, inspired by a feeling of it being in the interests of party harmony and organization, that the gathering Saturday at Ottawa of the 40 Conservative members of the House of Commons welcomed the announcement that Mr. Bennett could accept their unanimous invitation to continue in the office. The announcement is received with satisfaction also by the Conservative organization and press throughout the country.

With the leadership settled for the time being there remains the question of future policy of the party. There is a demand for a national convention. This will probably be granted because of the uncertainty at present as to just which way the party is headed. There are two tendencies evident. One, accepted as that of the mass of Ontario Conservatives, has been expressed by Mr. Hector Charlesworth as follows: "The majority of Conservative opinion is that these policies (designed to meet present conditions) should not only be of a stable and reasonable character, but more radical than anything that has been associated with the name of Conservatism in the past." At the other extreme is the section of the party for which The Montreal Gazette speaks when it says: "Briefly, it will be the business of the convention, if held, to decide whether or not the party is to go back to first principles; to act as a collective expression of political thought harmonizing with the party's past services, with the conception of public responsibility which actuated the great Conservative leaders of the past, or whether it is to compete with radicalism, is to exchange all its old lamps for new, and is, in short, to cease being a Conservative party."

Thus the good old Tory party is at the parting of the ways.

Motors and Cities

ACCORDING TO CHARLES F. KETTER, vice-president of General Motors, we shall have to provide roads on this continent for 50 per cent more motor vehicles in the next 23 years. Basing his remarks on 18 questions he sent to a great many people in the automobile and allied industries, he arrives at some interesting conclusions on road building and city development problems.

One interesting prediction is that the automobile may spell the doom of great cities or at least the growth of cities now of ordinary size into great cities. The population trend is away from the congested areas. Some of the men Mr. Kettering questioned predicted a new development would be the string or ribbon city. This is an almost continuous population existing on both sides of a trunk highway. Others believe that faster means of transportation from outside into the centre of large cities is coming. This would make it possible for workmen to live as much as 50 miles from their work. Homes would be located on large plots in the open country.

Incidentally, Mr. Kettering's research shows that 60 miles an hour is considered by many people now as reasonable speed, but as roads and cars become better speeds may go up farther and with more safety than at present.

The Law and Trailers

AUTO TRAILER LIFE HAS BEEN AN easy mark for people who like to dig out the whimsical angles of a new vogue. But another good mark for trailer kibitzers are the old laws which just do not fit in the trailer era.

Des Moines physicians attending the birth of a trailer baby recently, had the impression that Iowa law prohibited the birth of a child in a vehicle. So, with the father, they hoisted the trailer on to logs, leaving the wheels dangling. Later it was found that no such law exists. The incident remains, nevertheless, as an example to today's law-makers, for some other weird things are happening as trailer tourists run up against archaic regulations.

Fortunately most of these situations are the kind that can be laughed off. Of course, there is a serious side, since trailers can become a nuisance if they are not properly regulated. And that is something else that municipalities are learning day by day.

The English woman who complained she lost 20 pounds at the race track betting booth could clean up if she could put her experience into the form of a recipe.

De Bono's Confession

IN ONE OF THE MOST REVEALING documents of modern statecraft, General Emilio de Bono in his book published in Italy on the Italian campaign in Ethiopia frankly and quite proudly tells how Mussolini and he planned the campaign and executed it. The English translation of the book has not yet been published, but Harper's Magazine in its current number prints significant extracts.

Mussolini in his introduction warns that De Bono's book "is destined to astonish the reader, whether he is an Italian or a foreigner." It does all of that as it unfolds the amazing details of the plotting and preparation for the rape of Ethiopia.

The scheming got under way in 1932 when De Bono made a trip to Eritrea, Italy's colony adjoining Ethiopia. He returned with the opinion that "the possibilities of our colonial future must be sought in East Africa, situated on one of the most important highways of international trade, with a hinterland which could be profitably exploited." But, says De Bono, "in 1932 nothing definite had... been settled as regards the character and method of a possible campaign against the probable enemy."

Came the autumn of 1934. Says the Italian general: "The Duce had spoken to no one of the coming operations in East Africa; only he and I knew what was going to happen, and no indiscretion occurred by which the news could reach the public." Followed immediately the quieter preparations, reconnoitering of the port of Massawa, so that "men and materials could be disembarked in good time to allow operations to begin on the date fixed by the Duce, which I always regarded irrevocable."

Still, De Bono was cautious, he says, because he "did not wish to cause any unnecessary alarm... not only the enemy but also the people at home." However, by the following February—1935—Il Duce wrote De Bono: "In case the Negus should have no intention of attacking us, we ourselves must take the initiative." Again, in March, Il Duce wrote:

It is my profound conviction that, we being obliged to take the initiative of the operations at the end of October or September, you ought to have a combined force of 300,000 men... plus 300-500 airplanes and 300 rapid cars—for without these forces the operations will not have the vigorous rhythm which we desire."

As for the League of Nations, Mussolini wrote: "Even in view of possible international controversies, it is as well to hasten our tempo. I am willing to commit a sin of excess, but never a sin of deficiency." The men, the arms, the guns, the planes, the rapid cars were all provided. The war to "carry civilization to Ethiopia" was begun, fought and won. But neither Mussolini nor De Bono in this book so much as mentions civilization.

The whole story is a confession of just plain thuggery—with the thugs boasting as thugs habitually do in the psychopathic ward of their criminal deeds.

Where Oldest Man Fought

WHERE THE MOST ANCIENT MEN known to science lived, loved, worked and fought, Japanese and Chinese soldiers are now using the most modern methods of killing each other. Reports from the Peiping area indicate that the famous archaeological sites near Chou-kou-tien are well within the battle zone. Here have been unearthed from caves the bones of Sinanthropus, the Peking Man, who lived perhaps half a million years ago and who is considered to be perhaps the most ancient true ancestor of modern man.

Chou-kou-tien is only 45 miles from Peiping on a branch of the Peiping-Hankow Railway. Scientists are concerned that the present fighting will endanger the collections and studies of the geologists and anthropologists engaged in studying Peking Man, as well as other scientific work in the Peiping area.

Sound Legally, But—

THE HAMILTON MAGISTRATE in handing down a judgment based on the common law of England may have been on sound legal ground, and may have given husbands a passing glow of satisfaction, but his "Court Rules Men May Chastise Wives" judgment may be accepted at the same value as a number of famous aphorisms such as "Every American-born boy may be President," "Every French soldier has a field marshal's baton in his haversack."

The only flaw in the worthy magistrate's decision is that, sound law or not, there won't be any wives who will stand for it. A wife, unimpressed by the weight of legal argument, would merely reply in the illogical feminine manner, "Phooey," and walk out on the scene.

Notes

The Chinese who invented the fan would never recognize it today yelling in the bleachers at the baseball park.

They say the chief concern of Japan is face-saving. That is true over here, too, but we use a different kind of powder.

Dr. Charles H. Mayo, the distinguished physician of the clinic which bears his and his brother's name, tells in a convincing way what preventive medicine means to the masses of the people in their everyday existence. "Each of us," he says, "is what heredity and environment has made us. Sixteen persons within the last hundred years have passed on to each of us inherent characteristics, good and bad, which will have an influence on what happens to us from now on."

Loose Ends

By BRUCE HUTCHISON

AFTER THIS, HATS

FOR THE FIRST TIME in many years I missed a provincial election, not long ago, which was a great grief to me. But I made adequate preparations for the event. I arranged for all contingencies with a series of canny wagers. Indeed, I expected to come home here and find myself in a state of unaccustomed affluence.

This is to reveal that none of the wagers has been paid. Some of the most eminent politicians of British Columbia are walking the streets today, unblinking, their debts of honor forgotten. This is the kind of thing that undermines one's confidence in politics and democracy.

I am giving notice hereby that in future I will make no money wagers with politicians. I will bet only hats. You can always buy a hat and send the other fellow the bill. But if I asked a bank to cash a cheque on the Man from South Vancouver, or the Man from Kelowna, or the Man from Salmon Arm, the bank would merely smile, in the nice way banks have. They know these waging politicians too well. (South Vancouver, Kelowna and Salmon Arm papers please copy, in large type.)

BUSTLES

IT IS ANNOUNCED from Paris that bustles are coming back. The prospect is intriguing, and yet, having seen the female form in its natural state for so long, and in such detail, the world will hardly be satisfied with a mere caricature of it. The thing which astounds me, however, after seeing Paris, is why that place can put bustles on the women of the entire world or take them off; can remake the human anatomy as it pleases, add protuberances and curves, remove them at will; elongate, widen, shorten or broaden nature's work at a moment's notice.

Paris can do this because of an ancient and absurd legend, the legend that the women of Paris are more beautiful, more alluring, more sex-appealing than the women of other places. If all the women of America could be set down in Paris tonight, the legend would die before tomorrow morning.

A while ago I made a careful scientific investigation of this matter at first hand. I studied it conscientiously from all angles. I devoted much thought to it. And I came unanimously to the conclusion that the women of Paris were the dullest-looking and the most absurdly dressed of any in the world. The streets of Victoria are full of women who would outshine any you see on the boulevards. In fact, the only beautiful ones are in the Follies—collected with great difficulty by ransacking the whole nation—and they are not subject to the decrees of fashion for the simple reason that they wear no fashions at all. The new decrees about bustles won't affect them, but it will be implicitly observed in Victoria; because it comes from Paris. And Paris is a legend that dies hard because most women haven't seen it and won't believe honest investigators like me.

BLISS

PARENTS will soon be raising their annual complaint about the cost of school text books, and no wonder. Quite obviously, if education is a condition which the state forces upon the individual, because it is considered a good thing for the state, then the state should pay the whole cost, including books of all sorts. But the really arresting thought provoked by the approaching end of the holidays is something else. It is the appalling thought that the children must master all these books, whether free or not, and they contain far more than any of us adults can possibly know.

Nobody over 30 but a school teacher has half the knowledge that is now required of a child entering high school. And they are adding to it every day as knowledge expands, as the world discovers new facts and makes new history. The child must know these things or it is publicly disgraced by failure to pass examinations, but the adult can be as ignorant as he pleases, can be totally unaware of everything happening in the world about him, and still remain a respected member of society. Indeed, the less he knows, the more respectable he is likely to be and the amount of respectability in the world just now is truly remarkable.

I am inclined to think that the greatest advantage of middle age, the great compensation for getting old, is that, once you have left school, you can be as ignorant as you like. You can stop thinking altogether and nobody will bother about it; probably nobody will notice it. You will merely be in fashion.

That is why most of us start to go downhill as soon as we matriculate, and are never as intelligent as our children. We lose knowledge very fast after we leave school, but fortunately we fill up the empty spaces with prejudices, and they serve very well. After a while we don't know the difference.

GOING FAST

ALL OF WHICH reminds one that the miracle of this season has occurred again as usual, and the summer, defying all speed limits, breaking all natural laws and the arrangements of astronomy, is already getting old. It has hardly started. We have hardly begun to get used to it. And yet I am able to announce today that it is on the wane; for, alas, the Yellow Transparents are ripe, swelling with juice, fairly beaming with good nature and proclaiming caustically to all that autumn is only a few weeks off. No other part of the paper will give you this information, no weather bureau will admit it, but newspaper editors and weather men don't grow Yellow Transparents.

JUST A PRACTICAL FELLOW

A visitor to a college chemical laboratory inquired what the professors were experimenting for. "We're trying to find a universal solvent," one explained. "A liquid that will dissolve anything." The visitor thought a moment. "Hm-m," he said. "And when you find it what are you going to keep it in?"

"Colossal Folly" Railway Lines Now Wealth Producers

By S. W. FAIRWEATHER
Director, Bureau of Economics, C.N.R.

MONTREAL.

We hear a great deal of Canada being over-railroaded. It seems to me that this is an example of those half truths which becloud the Canadian railway issue. It passes my comprehension how a country can go through a development stage without a low population per mile of railway. The railway must go in advance of the population, but if the railway taps country which has natural resources, whether it be agricultural, lumbering or mining, population will come and the development of wealth will take place which will more than justify the railway.

The latest available figures show the railway freight traffic per capita in Canada and the United States is from four to five times as great as in such countries as Great Britain, France, Germany, Australia and the Argentine, so that although we have a low population per mile of railway, each person so far as railway traffic is concerned, counts four. This is simply another way of saying that the per capita wealth production of Canada is high and that in that wealth production railways play a very important part. The history of the development of capital wealth in Canada parallels the growth in railways, but at a much greater rate. For every dollar of railway capital, Canada has increased her capital wealth $12.

I am old enough to remember the time when the construction of the National Transcontinental in northern Quebec and Ontario and of the Canadian Northern Railway in the prairie provinces was looked upon as a colossal folly. Today we know that the future wealth of Canada will be drawn in no small measure from the territory served by these lines. Consider, too, that in the highly industrialized section of the country which will draw its stimulus from the development of the hinterland the Canadian National Railways is pre-eminent in serving every industrial centre, and you get a picture of the potentialities of the system which is far different from that painted by our detractors.

But pioneering development is expensive. It is safe generalization that no railway system can be built and operated for development purposes and, in the earlier years, pay interest on the cost of construction under a set of rates which are dictated by the necessity of encouraging development. A curious situation arises that while the nation gets rich as a result of the development, the railway shows deficits unless subsidized.

We, in Canada, have pursued both policies. We have paid huge subsidies in cash and land for development purposes, and quite wisely so. I can see no difference between the two, but it is a curious quirk, in the minds of some of our critics that subsidies to privately-owned enterprises are examples of wise and statesmanlike policy, but a deficit incurred by a nationally-owned enterprise for the same purpose is a veritable threat to our national existence.

It is easy for the general public to over-estimate the importance of the economies to be secured by the elimination of existing railway lines. We should, however, avoid uneconomic duplication of railway facilities in the future.

PRAISE FROM A VISITOR

To the Editor:—As a visitor to your city during the last few days, I wish to take this opportunity of congratulating whoever may be responsible for the wonderful programme provided for your citizens and visitors in connection with your 75th birthday celebration. The military tattoo was a remarkable demonstration, and I don't think its equal has been shown anywhere.

The parade on August 4 was one of which any city might be proud; the floats were beautiful and fitting, and those that were intended to be amusing were amusing indeed.

I was particularly impressed with the squadron of Mounted Police. The men and horses seemed to be trained to the last degree of perfection. My greatest surprise, however, was to learn that this was a representative part of the British Columbia Police and not the Royal Mounted Police of which we hear so much on our side of the line. I may have been incorrectly informed, but if British Columbia is possessed of such an efficient organization one would think we would hear more about it in the neighboring state. Whatever they were, they made a great impression.

COLLIE'S SNEEZING FITS

From New Yorker
Recent mention of the case of the Scottie who had sneezing fits and had to be snatched up quickly to keep him from hitting his chin on the floor has brought a note from a gentleman with a collie who also has sneezing fits. When this dog sneezes, he always cracks his chin on the floor, and then looks reproachfully at his master, obviously of the opinion that he should be able to do something about it. Apart from saying "Gesundheit" there is nothing the master has been able to do, for the collie is disgracefully fat, weighing at least 70 pounds, and cannot be snatched up.

A PLEASING INCIDENT

To the Editor:—A little incident that made its appeal to those who witnessed it was that on Monday last at the entrance to The Times building, a badly-crippled elderly man, supporting himself with two stout sticks, stood at the top of the short flight of steps, motioned to a tall, young Times carrier to stand near him while he slowly descended the steps. In an instant the willing boy, evidently sizing the situation and watching carefully, descended each step with the disabled man, positively refusing the proffered acknowledgment. This, coupled with his evident willingness and thoughtfulness, pleased those who witnessed the incident, and it is hoped the young carrier (who will surely reap his reward sooner or later) will, when he reads this, share the pleasure of those of his spectators of Monday last who were delighted to relate the occurrence to the city editor.

Gay Night Carnival Closes Anniversary Week Celebrations

Confetti Battle and Miniature Fire Features of Brilliant Torchlight Parade

Fluttering flakes of confetti and the odd streamer of serpentine which today had eluded the sweeper's broom on Douglas Street joined with a host of happy memories to recall the gay carnival which closed Victoria's anniversary torchlight parade on Saturday night. Thousands watched the spectacle as gaily decorated floats, illuminated by electric lights, torches, and lanterns swung through the streets, and congregated on Douglas, between Fort and Humboldt Streets to join in the confetti battle, which drew the miniature mardis gras to an end.

Smaller than the daylight parade on Wednesday, Saturday night's affair made up in frolic what it lacked in the number of entries.

Preceded by a spectacular run by the fire department, sirens screaming and engines roaring as they swept up Government Street, the procession opened with a brilliant display of maze riding by members of the Victoria Motorcycle Club, their machines carrying colored headlights.

VISITING BAND

Port Townsend's American Legion Post No. 26 bugle corps swept along, playing spirited airs for the citizens marching behind. Port Townsend's Rhododendron Queen occupied a car of honor, along with civic dignitaries.

Fantastic figures of the carnival some walking, some on bicycles darted in and out as the parade continued. Clowns preceded a long, twisting serpent, humorously sinister in the glare of small rockets shot up from small hand-held sticks.

The oxen-drawn Pioneer Days wagon crawled along, the patient animals drawing a comic bridal party.

Atop a red-white-and-blue decorated sedan a birthday cake, with candles gleaming, marked one expression of felicitations to the city on its anniversary. Ahead of it moved the Vancouver entry, the artistic setting of the sphere and congratulatory greetings to the Capital brought out sharply by the lighting effects.

Enhanced by the lights it carried, the Victoria floral float, gladioli showing through a mist of baby's-breath, lost little of its attractiveness in the night procession.

The Canadian Legion band, not present at the day event, swung along, leading a brightly lighted car and the sparkling and shining commercial exhibit of Robinson's Bicycle Store.

Favorites on Wednesday, the floats of the B.C. Electric, the purple floral car, the green canopied Saanich entry and the bright Vancouver Drug mobile dispensary showed well in the event.

Brilliant in scarlet tunics and pill-box hats the pennant-bearing mounted group from the Victoria Riding Academy added a splash of gay color to the parade.

Kapoor Lumber Company, with a decorated float bearing a huge log and showing different phases of the lumber industry, wished Victoria well in a banner which lauded the city's progress.

JAPANESE FLOAT

Even more beautiful than it appeared on Wednesday, the Japanese Community float again gave a signal triumph; the delicate shades of its cherry tree and trailing wisteria as well as the colorful costumes of native maidens revealed in detail in the wealth of lights strung around the structure.

Central films shot piercing beams into the sky from giant searchlights on their truck and provided spotlights for the children in fancy costume and decorated cars which followed.

Fifth Brigade brass and bugle bands, Gizeh Temple, and the Sea Cadets kept up lively measures at their various stations in the parade, while a special entry from the Sikh Temple, and float decorated brightly with lights and colored paper, gave Victorians a taste of the music traditional to the East Indians as a three piece band and vocalist performed in the body of the truck.

The outline of the float picked out in strings of light the Victoria Fire Department's Mutual Benevolent Society's floral helmet-shone in all its glory, a glittering dragon topping the piece.

The smart mounted detachment from the British Columbia Police was warmly received as was the illuminated golden

SI-KLONIC FIRE TRUCK

More decorated cars and smaller vehicles, the Baylis Neon Sign float, illuminated with its patent process and an automobile outlined in tiny colored lights swung along ahead of the clanging, noise-ridden crazy float of the Victoria Fire Department.

The entries of the Foothealth Store, more clowns and comic figures, the Women's Institute of Victoria, an old car completely embowered in serpentine, the Shawngnan Lake float and a pair of mounted Sikhs in white turbans and white robes, drew up the rear of the procession.

As the parade moved into Douglas Street from Fort prior to the confetti battle, the progress of its latter part was completely disrupted. The Si-Klonic fire department's demonstration burning hut, was completely consumed by flames and the crowd broke ranks to watch the clowning firemen attempt to put it out.

BAND AT PARK WELL RECEIVED

Unsettled weather yesterday failed to dampen the enthusiasm of attendants at Sunday concerts in Beacon Hill Park, and a crowd of about 1,500 persons heard William F. Tickle's orchestra and guest artists.

The orchestra presented a variety programme of classics, light classics and light opera. The soloist was Mrs. Charles Hunt. Miss Merle North was to appear with the orchestra but developed a slight cold, which prevented her taking part.

Mrs. Hunt's four selections were well received by the crowd, which also generously applauded the orchestral selections. Mrs. Hunt's numbers were "Kashmiri Song," "Because," "Only a Rose," "Rose in the Bud." Her accompanist was Malcolm More.

The programme by the orchestra follows:

March, "The Prophet" (Meyerbeer); overture, "Barber of Seville" (Rossini); selection, "The Firefly" (Prinl); concert waltz, "Voices of Spring" (Strauss); songs, "Believe Me If All Those Endearing Young Charms" and "When You and I Were Young, Maggie"; folk music by two guitars; operatic selection, "Faust" (Gounod); march, "Master At Arms" (Sangler); selection, "Old Folks At Home" and "The Lord's Prayer"; descriptive, "In a Monastery Garden" and "Country Gardens"; light opera music from "The Gondoliers" (Sullivan); march, "The London Scottish."

Those acting as judges were: Alderman Dr. J. D. Hunter (chief judge), Mrs. D. B. McConnan, Mrs. P. B. Scurrah, Mrs. T. A. Johnston, H. Bleasdale, Douglas Flintoff, L. Wilson, P. J. Balagno, Frank Giolma, H. M. Diggon and W. H. Warren.

Sooke Prepares For Gala Event

Lieut.-Governor and Mrs. Hamber to Partake of Salmon Barbecue Wednesday

Plans are being completed today for the annual Sooke Day festivities on Wednesday. An elaborate programme has been prepared and the presence of the Lieutenant-Governor and Mrs. Hamber will lend interest to the occasion, which last year attracted close to 5,000 persons, including many tourists to Victoria.

The Times Cup again will be awarded this year for the best baby up to the age of 18 months. This child may be entered from any rural district of Vancouver Island. Each youngster entered in the show will also receive a gift from the Vancouver Drug Company.

TO OPEN SHOW

The Lieutenant-Governor and his party expect to arrive at 12.30 in time to formally open the show. He and Mrs. Hamber will be greeted by representatives of various organizations at Sooke, including the Canadian Legion, the Ladies' Auxiliary, the Sooke Women's Institute and a number of churches.

One of the great features of the annual All-Sooke Day is the salmon barbecue. His Honor and Mrs. Hamber will be invited to partake of this for their luncheon. Later the barbecue will be served again, at 4, when 100 Sooke residents will serve the meal.

A lengthy programme of events that should prove highly entertaining has been arranged. There will be track and field events, sports in the water, two tug-of-war competitions and several loggers' contests, including the men's log-bucking and men's log-rolling contests for the championships of Vancouver Island.

BARBECUE OF BEEF

The Sooke Gold Rush has also been planned this year to be bigger and better than ever. A feature of this will be the barbecue of beef, cooked in the style of the gold miners to the Leech River in 1864, who cooked their beef in ash pits.

In addition to The Times Cup, other trophies to be competed for have been presented by The Colonist, the Sooke Community Association, the Sooke branch of the Canadian Legion, Little and Taylor of Victoria, Mr. and Mrs. P. W. deP. Taylor, the Sooke Liberal Association.

The gala day will be wound up with two dances in the evening, one in the new Community Hall and the other in the old Sooke Hall. Old-time music will be featured and there will be a competition for the Edinburgh quadrille. There will be a cup for the winning set.

TO STIMULATE HOME TRAVEL

Roads League Wants British Columbians to Know
Own Province

Last year British Columbia closed its tourist season on the disquieting note of an unfavorable balance of automobile visitors. Customs inspectors reported 226,420 Canadian automobiles entered during the same period. In other words, the automobile season showed an adverse balance represented by more than 77,000 cars; a direct loss of several hundred thousands of dollars to the province.

In an endeavor to remedy this situation, the Good Roads League of B.C., under the direction of Charles H. Webster, business manager, has instituted an advertising campaign within the province. This campaign is designed to inspire our own citizens to "discover British Columbia" by telling them of the countless points of beauty and vacation interests that lie within easy reach of our cities.

It is believed that stipulation of travel within the province will result in keeping thousands and thousands of vacation dollars at home.

The relatively small amount of travel by British Columbians in our matchless province, Mr. Webster believes, is due to a lack of knowledge of the many holiday resorts—beauty spots—fishing areas and diversified resources of British Columbia.

In the whole of North America, he says, no other place can offer the variety of interests that lie at our own doors: intriguing boat trips in sheltered waters; mountain climbing and hiking; lake, stream and sea fishing; unsurpassed hunting; motor trips through country of ever-changing beauty and unequalled grandeur. From the silver sands of Pacific beaches to the majestic peaks of the Rockies—from the international border to the far north British Columbia is a wonderful land to the vacationist.

Royal Family At Church Service

Cheers Subside To Silence On Sunday

CRATHIE, Scotland (CP)—A crowd of 3,000 yesterday watched the King and Queen, accompanied by their two daughters, drive to church from Balmoral in an open carriage.

The Scottish folk first cheered their Majesties on their arrival, then, realizing it was Sunday, subsided into silence. Some sight-seers, anxious to watch departure of the royal family, caused a disturbance in the church after the service by scrambling over pews in their haste to gather at the door.

During the afternoon Queen Elizabeth, accompanied by the two Princesses, drove from Balmoral to Glamis Castle, the home of the Queen's parents, the Earl and Countess of Strathmore. The King is expected to join them there shortly.

Quintuplets All Have Colds

Tourists Not Permitted To See Famous Five

CALLANDER, Ont.—The Dionne quintuplets have developed mild colds their physician, Dr. A. R. Dafoe, said today. Dr. Dafoe said that Emilie, who had been "under the weather" for a week with a sore throat, is now well, but her four sisters—Yvonne, Annette, Cecile and Marie have slight colds, and the five will not be visible to the tourist public for two or three days.

Dr. Dafoe emphasized that no anxiety is felt, and said it is not likely Dr. Alan Brown, Toronto child specialist, will be called in for consultation as he was in Emilie's case. The quintuplets have been feeling the heat and are "not quite up to the mark," so the daily inspection by tourists has been suspended for the time being.

No change has been made in their diet and they are allowed the run of the play yard as usual, but under discretion of the nurse in charge, who guards against their getting too tired.

"Emilie is now quite well," the doctor said, "but there is no point in bringing one of them out alone to look at the crowd. Besides, the others would be lonesome."

A reception, which was attended by a large number of friends, was held after the service at the bride's former home by her sisters, Mrs. S. Tongue and Misses Evelyn and Annie McNutt. The guests were received on the lawn, which was brightly illuminated with gay Chinese lanterns, and supper was served at a table centred with the three-tiered cake standing between vases of mauve and pink sweet peas and tall tapers in silver holders.

BEERE-BREWSTER

At the First United Church on Saturday evening, Rev. John E. Bell united in marriage Annie Evelyn (Nan), youngest daughter of the late Mr. H. C. Brewster, a former Premier of British Columbia and Mrs. Brewster, and Mr. James Albert M. Beere, elder son of Mrs. A. M. Beere, Pembroke Street, and the late Mr. A. A. Beere.

The bride was given in marriage by her brother-in-law, Mr. James Thompson of Vancouver and wore a gown of white satin, the skirt of which ended in a short train. The bodice was fashioned with long sleeves. Her veil of silk net was applied with satin rosebuds and held in place on her head with a coronet of orange blossoms and pearls, while her bouquet was a shower of Columbia roses and lilies of the valley.

The bridegroom's sister, Miss Doreen Beere, was the only attendant of the bride and wore a redingote of rose silk over a crownless off-the-face hat of rose stitched net, trimmed with matching flowers and she carried a sheaf of sweet peas and rosebuds.

The bridegroom was supported by Mr. Duncan Anderson of Vancouver, and the guests were shown to the pews by Mr. Alex Main, Mr. Cleaver Wilson and Mr. Paul Beere.

Mr. G. H. Peaker presided at the organ and as the register was being signed he played Schubert's "Serenade."

A reception was held at the home of the bride's aunt, Mrs. J. O. Townsend, 1254 Pandora Avenue, following the marriage service. Mrs. Townsend wearing a brown lace dress with matching hat was assisted in welcoming the guests by Mrs. Beere, who wore a dress of rose beige lace with black accessories. They wore corsage bouquets of pink rosebuds. Pink and white flowers predominated in the arrangements of flowers throughout the home and during the welcoming of the guests, the bridal party stood in the window embrasure where tall vases filled with gladioli and sweet peas, made a gay background.

The bride cut the handsome wedding cake centring the supper table, which was also adorned with sweetheart rosebuds, lilies of the valley and carnations.

Mr. and Mrs. Beere left on the midnight boat for Vancouver on their way to Banff, the bride traveling in a pearl grey suit, with topcoat to match with silver

Teacher Punishes Youthful Bride

SNEEDVILLE, Tenn. (AP)—A switching for "general mischievousness"—so her teacher said—was the reason Mrs. Eunice Johns, Tennessee's nine-year-old child bride, was not at her desk in the Fairmont grade school today.

Eunice, who gained the national spotlight last January when she and Charlie Johns, 22, were married, was a pupil at the grade school several miles from here in a remote section of Hancock County—for two days only.

Wade Ferguson, her teacher, said the child quit school last week after he switched her. The incident, he said, brought her lanky husband to the two-room schoolhouse, where Ferguson teaches 40 children.

"Why, you can't whip another man's wife," Ferguson quoted Johns as saying when he came to protest against the punishment.

"Oh, yes, I can whip another man's wife if another man sends his wife to school to me," Ferguson said he told Johns.

Ferguson said he had trouble with the little mountain girl "the first day of school."

"I had to scold her several times that day," he said, "but hesitated to punish her."

Ferguson said Eunice entered school last Monday, enrolling in the first class of the primary grades.

Your Baby And Mine

By MYRTLE MEYER ELDER

FOOD CONTENT AND NUMBER OF MEALS IS MOST IMPORTANT

"My baby is only five weeks old and has already begun to sleep through the night without feeding," is by no means an unusual boast these days. For while baby's daytime feedings should be regular and inflexible, it is quite all right to wait until the 6 p.m. feeding until he wakens of his own accord, before offering any further meals.

If, as so frequently happens, he does not waken at all, it should be indication enough that he is amply nourished, and to waken him and force more nourishment would be to disrupt the good night habits he is forming.

The secret of the baby's contentment lies not in the number of meals per day, but in their content. A mother whose baby's weight was far below average decided to make the change from six to eight meals daily. As was to have been expected, this did not increase the baby's rate of gain, but merely resulted in the mother's increased fatigue and nervousness. She had only so much nourishment to supply and the number of feedings was immaterial.

There are no absolute feeding rules which fit all cases, but in the main it is probable that most babies who are given liberal and satisfying meals four times daily, will very shortly learn to sleep all night without a drop of food.

If, perchance, they do waken any time between 10 and 12, no effort should be made to force them to go to sleep unaided. Obviously, they are hungry. If they waken, just as one must surmise that they are not when they sleep.

When the baby is not satisfied either day or night to wait the stipulated number of hours between meals, what he obviously needs is more nourishment. This may mean a complementary bottle if he is nursed, it may mean an enriched formula if bottle fed, it may mean the addition of solid food if he has reached an age and weight to dictate such changes. It does not mean that he needs more feedings per day.

Our leaflet on "Complementary Feedings" may help the young nursing mother to improve her baby's diet without recourse to weaning. It may be had for a 3c stamped, self-addressed envelope sent with your request to Myrtle Meyer Elder of the Your Baby and Mine department of this newspaper.

Captain's Actions Prevent Disaster

BRACEBRIDGE, Ont. (CP)—Capt. C. W. Archer won a race against imminent disaster today in his excursion steamer Mildren while 25 passengers of a Muskoka lakes trip remained ignorant of their danger.

With his 22-year-old daughter, Audrey, acting as mate and one man stoking the wood-burning boiler below, Archer kept the boat headed for a dock a mile away after striking a shoal that stove in a section near the stern. Only when he ran the Mildren up on the beach did the holiday-makers realize what had occurred.

They walked down a gangplank to safety. The rising waters had put out the fire just before Archer beached his craft.

ROME — Friends of Prince David Mdivani, last of the three "marrying Mdivanis," said today his engagement to Miss Muriel "Honey" Johnson of Bronxville, N.Y., soon would be announced.

Mdivani, divorced from Mae Murray in 1933, met Miss Johnson 10 days ago.

When Henry Woods steps into the ring at the Athletic Park on Friday evening for his 10-round outdoor bout with Frenchy Beaudin, the Yakima colored boy will have an advantage in experience over the French-Canadian from Edmonton. The show will start at 8.30 with six bouts carded.

Beaudin, who is 21, has had 35 fights, including eight knockouts and five draws. The prairie scrapper has not been beaten in any of his recent engagements.

Promoter Nick Lyster announced today that he had engaged the two Buxton brothers, Jimmy and Dickie, for the opening preliminary of three two-minute rounds.

The seat sale for the show started today at Belcher's Newsstand, Yates Street.

Aberhart Wants An Investigation

Premier Says Banks' Handling of Credit Must Not Harm Albertans

EDMONTON (CP)—Premier William Aberhart in an address to the Edmonton Prophetic Bible Conference Sunday night declared the Alberta government had no interference with the regular business of banking in view, but did desire "an investigation into the usurped right of monetizing our credit and holding a monopoly in that regard that is detrimental to our citizens."

"Surely," he said, "the banking institutions cannot claim to be above and beyond all direction and control in connection with the provincial law and civil rights. If so, something is seriously wrong."

"If they declare our acts (passed last week for provincial regulation of bankers) unconstitutional or if they disallow them in the face of the strongly expressed will of the people to the contrary, surely the welfare of our people is not being considered by those who would thus act."

Lillian Grant, of Victoria, placed third in the amateur strathspeys and reels, and Georgina Moore of Courtenay in Seann Truibhas and Reel o' Tulloch (under 12 years).

Edmund Pearson Dies in New York

NEW YORK (AP)—Edmund Lester Pearson, 57, foremost writer in the United States on criminology, and widely known for his chronicle of the famous Borden murder case, died Sunday after a prolonged illness.

Pearson's last book, "Trial of Lizzie Borden," a definite account of the celebrated axe murders on Fall River, Mass., in 1892, was published last spring and was on the non-fiction best seller list for a time.

The Romans got their first taste of food made from rye and oats when they encountered northern Europeans.

THE OTHER WOMAN LIVES JUST AROUND THE CORNER

It may seem unreasonable, but most men cannot understand why a woman who is usually happy and loving should have recurring periods when her whole character seems changed. He cannot appreciate the distress, the discomfort that all women must endure. He does not know what it is to do housework with an aching back and failing energy. All he does know is that other women seem more cheerful by comparison.

Are you such a three-quarter wife? Don't let the crumbs that all women face cause you avoidable discomfort or endanger your home. Do as so many wise women have—try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

For three generations a woman has told another how to go "smiling through" with Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. It helps Nature tone up the system, thus lessening the discomforts from the functional disorders which women must endure in the three or four years of life. 1. Tiring from girlhood to womanhood. 2. Preparing for motherhood. 3. Approaching "middle age."

Don't be a three-quarter wife, take LYDIA E. PINKHAM'S VEGETABLE COMPOUND and Go "Smiling Through."

Germans Speeding Supplies To Franco

London Herald Correspondent Tells How Spanish Insurgents Aided

LONDON (CP-Havas)—German shipments of war materials to insurgent Spain have been speeded up in the last few weeks, a special correspondent of The London Daily Herald, labor organ, said today in an article based on observations during a trip to Hamburg.

"I have just returned from Hamburg," the correspondent wrote, "and can give details of the heavy traffic carried out from that port, despite strict precautions to maintain secrecy about the loading and unloading of ships bound for or returning from Spain and Portugal."

Docks reserved for trade with insurgent Spain have been extremely busy since June, the Herald writer said, adding that during July work became so heavy that picked blackshift guards, previously used exclusively for loading work, were supplemented by ordinary stevedores.

Some of the cargoes were officially labelled as bound for Shanghai, the article said, "but in these cases I have ascertained beyond doubt that the material was not delivered by any German armament firms, but had been sent direct from the Reichswehr arsenals."

U.S. Republicans Voicing Hopes

Expect to Benefit in 1938 Elections From Present Democratic Divisions

WASHINGTON (AP)—Much can happen before the 1938 off-year elections roll around, but it is becoming apparent that Republican hopes of recapturing substantial ground in the United States Congress are the highest in several years.

Moreover, visions of a return to power in 1940 begin to arise in the minds of the minority men when they study the possible implications of the rift in the Democratic ranks and the passions stimulated by the court bill fight.

Political observers are on the alert to catch the first hint from the White House as to the President's plans for answering the challenge to his leadership involved in the Democratic revolt over the court measure. He has never accepted in terms the surrender in that fight—a capitulation negotiated by Vice-President Garner.

If Roosevelt carries to the country, as many of his political lieutenants expect him to do, the fight for "objectives" of his administration, including reorganization of the Supreme Court, that issue will cast its shadow over every Democratic primary race. Whether or not there are to be definite "retrial" efforts by the administration to unseat party rebels in the Senate, many of them seem certain to face opposition by "100 per cent Roosevelt" candidates.

FOR AND AGAINST
 Private administration check lists on Democratic senators up for re-election mark them down as for or against the President in the court bill fight. Of the 32 Senate seats up next year for refilling, 28 are held by Democrats and only four by Republicans. Yet administration strategists declare that of the 28 Democrats, 19 were openly or tacitly supporting the defeated court bill and only nine opposed.

The only direct campaign announcement yet made by a senator in the aftermath of the court fight is that of Frederick Van Nuys, Indiana Democrat and die-hard opponent of the administration's proposals. Months in advance of the Indiana primaries he has announced his intention of seeking re-election in the face of a declaration by Governor Townsend, Democratic executive, that he would not get a renomination.

Other participants in that Democratic revolt who face tests of voter sentiment next year are Adams in Colorado, Clark in Missouri, George of Georgia, Gillette in Iowa, Lonergan in Connecticut, McCarran in Nevada, the South Carolina veteran, "Cotton Ed" Smith, already long at odds with the administration on farm and other policies, and Tydings in Maryland.

Tiny Baby Loses Its Fight For Life

Frances Bocassini, Born After Mother's Death, Dies in Philadelphia

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Death, from which she had been snatched 46 hours earlier, claimed tiny Frances Mary Bocassini Sunday. She had been delivered in a Caesarean operation a minute after her mother died.

Hovering between life and death Saturday night, the baby four times conquered choking attacks and resumed normal breathing. She died after the fifth attack, early Sunday, as she lay in her air-conditioned incubator in the Philadelphia General Hospital.

Dr. John Corbit, chief resident obstetrician, who delivered the baby after the death of her mother, Mrs. Mary Bocassini, early Friday, again resorted to the aspirator or suction tube. It failed.

A stimulant was administered, but the tiny heart, weakened by the choking attacks, failed to respond. Dr. Corbit then resorted to artificial respiration.

For a quarter of an hour he and other physicians worked over the still form. Then they announced the baby was dead.

Mrs. Bocassini died of tuberculous meningitis. Physicians said there was no cure. As the woman died nurses waited and watched at her bedside called Dr. Corbit, who a minute later delivered the girl alive.

Dr. Corbit said "premature birth" was the cause of death.

SELISSIE STILL TRIES TO FREE ETHIOPIA
 LONDON (CP)—The Ethiopian legation here announced at the week-end that Haile Selassie, deposed Emperor of Ethiopia, "has not the slightest intention of renouncing his throne or of abandoning efforts to secure the independence of his country, which he is confident will ultimately be obtained with the help of the League of Nations."

The statement followed reports published here the Emperor might give up his claims to the throne and move from England to a European continental point. The legation denied Selassie planned to change his residence. He now lives at Bath.

Portable electric traffic lights, which can be attached quickly to a permanent base in the street, have been devised to protect school children at school hours.

 ANDREW and IMOGENE
 By ROE FULKERSON

"Priscilla is a cute little thing," said Andrew enthusiastically after their callers had left.

"Cute as a playing kitten," agreed Imogene heartily.

"Good looking, too," said Andrew.

"One of the best-looking women I know. Those small women who can have the word 'cute' applied to them, are very fortunate. She is not only cute, but very pretty besides."

"Didn't I hear you say a week or two ago that you didn't like her?"

"Did I?"

"You certainly did! Why the change of front?"

"You hadn't begun to admire her then."

"You mean that you admire any woman I admire?"

"It might seem that way," said Imogene with a very small smile.

"Then it only seems so, and is not so?"

"If you insist on an answer, it is 'yes.'"

"That doesn't make any sense!"

"Let's forget it as woman's non-sense."

"But I don't understand!"

"Men rarely do."

"I insist on knowing what you are talking about!"

"All right," said Imogene grimly. "I allowed myself to be talked into my present position, so I suppose I must talk myself out of it."

"A man is naturally a taker-upper for the underdog. Any time he notices some one he thinks is getting the worst of it, he will start an argument or even a fist fight in defence of the underdog."

"Secondly, the only way to keep out of an argument with a man is to agree with him. He will stoutly defend his opinions, no matter how absurd they may be, but if his wife agrees with him or avoids the argument, he will forget all about it."

"If she gives him an argument,

POWELL LAKE SCENE OF ATTACK

POWELL RIVER, B.C. (CP)—Leong Chong, employee of the Powell Lake Shingle Company near here, was in a hospital in a serious condition today as a result of being attacked near the mill late Saturday.

A few hours after the attack British Columbia police arrested an Indian on the Sliammon Reserve, three miles north of here, and charged him with robbery with violence.

Leong was returning to the mill after visiting Powell River, 1½ miles distant, when a man accosted him and demanded money, the Chinese told police. When he turned to flee Leong said the accoster attacked him and beat him to the ground with blows about the head and shoulders from an iron bar.

In the hospital it was found the Chinese was suffering from two fractures of the skull, head and face lacerations and possible fractures of the arm and shoulder.

Bennett Makes Campaign Plans

He Continues as Conservative Leader as Party Starts Organizing

OTTAWA (CP)—With Rt. Hon. R. B. Bennett remaining at the helm, the Conservative Party prepared today to launch a nationwide organization programme in preparation for the next general election.

That Mr. Bennett, improved in health, was willing to continue to devote his efforts to public service and retain active leadership of the party for the time being was indicated following a meeting of Conservative members of the House of Commons on Saturday.

The meeting was called to deal with the question of Mr. Bennett's leadership and other matters concerning the party. Ever since he suffered a serious illness in 1935 the possibility of his retirement has been more or less prominent in the minds of party members.

The meeting appointed committees to get organization under way. Committees will function in every province and eventually the organization will be centralized under a national office in Ottawa, although details of the latter phase of the matter were not settled.

There was no word as to whether Mr. Bennett is to continue as leader indefinitely or whether he still contemplates the possibility of retiring in the middle or distant future. Neither were any decisions reached on the policy the party will pursue in Parliament at the next session or the platform it will lay before the people at the next election.

Chicago Cubs Stow Away Another Twin Bill

By PETE SALLAWAY

TAKE it from a fellow who tore up the batsman's copybook in desperation himself, Joe DiMaggio is the perfect copybook hitter. "DiMaggio," Manager Joe Cronin of the Boston Red Sox, stated the other day, "is my idea of the perfect hitter. He has the ideal form." DiMaggio, New York Yankee slugger, leading the major leagues in runs scored, hitting over .350 and a sure bet to clout 40 home runs this season, does everything according to Hoyle, according to Cronin, who admits that he himself does everything wrong.

"Wrong, that is," says Joe, "for anybody else but me. I tried to follow the copybook, after a fashion, but it didn't do any good. Then I resorted to the stance I use now and it helped my hitting plenty."

"That's why I never try to tell a rookie how to hit unless he asks my advice. I wouldn't even suggest that anybody who has been playing the game a long while should imitate DiMaggio."

"But if a young kid, a sandlotter, came to me and asked me how he should grip a bat, set his feet, step into the pitch, and so forth, I'd tell him, 'Watch DiMaggio.'"

"You know those books, 'How to Bat,' that kids buy? Well, Joe is one of those books come to life."

"And he's a rarity in that respect. Hitting a baseball, unlike hitting a golf ball, doesn't demand a certain set form—that is, there's nothing like keeping your left arm straight, your right elbow close to your body, and so forth."

"But all the great hitters I can think of lacked the perfect form a coach would try to teach a raw youngster. Cobb, Simmons, Medwick, Manush—all of them have or had peculiar little tricks in their stance or grip or something which you wouldn't tell a youngster to imitate."

"Take Cobb . . . why no kid book on 'How to Bat' would ever suggest gripping a bat with hands inches apart. And yet Cobb, who was one of the greatest—if not the greatest—of all hitters, held a bat that way. His hands were separated on the bat handle. I asked him about it once and he told me that he found he could place his hands better. He left hand, he said, could direct the bat better that way. I use that grip now myself once in awhile and like it."

"And like it" is Cronin's modest way of saying that it has helped him become one of the best place-hitters in the game."

If Aloysius Szymanski had had a coach when he was playing around the sandlots of Milwaukee, the well-meaning tutor probably tried to break Aloysius of the habit of "putting his foot in the bucket."

Such a trick is considered among kid players as a sign of being a fraidy-cat. They scornfully think that you're afraid of being hit.

And yet when Aloysius Szymanski changed his name to Simmons and became one of the greatest hitters in baseball he hadn't changed that batting stance.

"Of course, I'd never tell a kid to stand that way," says Cronin, "but that 'foot in the bucket' has been one of the things that's helped Simmons become such a great hitter. It gave him a weave up there at the plate. You see, he could stride either way and could step over for outside pitches."

"Ducky Medwick bats something like Simmons—he has his foot out of position, but he weaves with the pitch. He's always able to shift to hit the ball no matter where it is. That's why a lot of people think he's a bad

Move Closer To World Series By Stopping Boston

National League Baseball Leaders Boost Margin to Five-and-half Games

Boston Sox Lose

All over the baseball map they're climbing aboard the band wagon for a New York Yankees-Chicago Cubs world-series this fall, and the way things shape up now that's not a bad guess.

A lot of apple carts can be upset in the 10 weeks still to go before they start commuting between New York and Chicago for their peanuts, hot dogs and homers, particularly in that National League race, but at the current pace of the Cubs and Yanks it's going to be tough to turn the trick.

As usual, the standout possibility to kick over the dope bucket are those New York Giants.

As a result, it's not going to be any too much of a dead clinch for the Cubs at best, despite their current five and a half game lead and what probably shapes up as the best balanced outfit in the league. They knocked off Boston's Bees in both ends of a doubleheader yesterday, 3 to 0 and 3 to 2, on a one-hit pitching performance by Tex Carleton in the opener and a clouting comeback by Phil Cavarretta in both games.

The double win boosted the Cubs' lead by half a game, since the Giants could get no better than an even break with their favorite "stooges," the Pittsburgh Pirates. They won the opener, 10 to 2, but Jim Weaver's three-hit blanketed them, 3 to 0, in the nightcap.

It's far easier to settle the American League business in advance. Nine and a half games in front, the Yankees look like a shoo-in from here.

With their deadly hitting, which in the last week alone has accounted for the astonishing average of something like eight runs on nine hits per game, they should waltz in. They squeezed through with a 6 to 5 win over Cleveland's collapsible Indians yesterday for their eighth success in a row.

The Boston Red Sox, in second place at the moment, stretched their undefeated run to 13 games by taking the Chicago White Sox, 7 to 6, in their opener, but then had the string snapped with a 13 to 0 walloping in the nightcap.

Ducky Medwick belted two homers in the first game and the St. Louis Cards took a 3 to 2 decision over the Phillies, but the best they could get was a 6 to 6 draw in the nightcap, despite Medwick's third round-tripper of the day.

The Cincinnati Reds and Brooklyn Dodgers also went to a nightcap deadlock, at 1 to 1, after the Reds won, 6 to 4, in the opener.

The Detroit Tigers topped the Washington Senators, 5 to 1, in a game cut to five frames by rain.

The Philadelphia Athletics beat the St. Louis Browns twice, 5 to 4 and 7 to 3.

GEORGE PAYNE HITS CENTURY

Scores 101 as Five C's Defeat Albions Handily in League Cricket

Hitting out six 6's and an equal number of 4's, George Payne scored a century and one run to spare as Five C's defeated the Albions by 41 runs and four wickets in a Victoria and District Cricket Association league match at Beacon Hill on Saturday.

Payne took hold of the Albions' bowling and did not allow a chance until he had passed the 100 mark. He was dismissed finally by a spectacular catch by Freeman on the boundary.

Apart from Payne, batsmen enjoyed but moderate luck. Walton put on 20 for the Albions and Alan Griffin was next highest for the churchmen with 13.

Albions were all dismissed for 65 when the Five C's went in to put up 136 for six.

Speed Thrills As Auto Races Staged

Settlerman, Seattle, Big Winner; Sutton Local Driver, Shows Well

Skidding recklessly on the turns but never for a second losing control of his high-powered, speeding car, Elmer Settlerman, Seattle daredevil racer, roared over the hard-surfaced track at the Langford Speedway to capture four events and carry off the big purse in the thrilling two and a half hour show presented Saturday night under floodlights before a crowd of 1,500. Victorians won two of the eight events.

The Seattle racing ace zoomed over the three-eighths of a mile course in 23 seconds flat to win the opening time trials, then won the helmet dash over three laps, the first heat dash of five laps and climaxed his evening's performance with a great triumph in the 15-lap main event. As a matter of fact, Settlerman scored first in every event he entered.

EXCITING RACE

With eight cars participating, the customers were treated to a real hot contest in the five-mile final event. Having made the best time in the trials, Settlerman won the pole position. He jockeyed into the lead at the start and maintained his margin for several laps.

Right behind him, however, Bert Sutton, Victoria, was doing his utmost to oust Stan Mahoney, Everett speedster, from second place, which he finally managed to accomplish and then thrilled the crowd when he gave his machine the gun and roared to the front of Settlerman to capture the lead as the race entered the eighth lap. The local lads' admirers roared their encouragement, but suddenly their hopes for a Victoria winner were blown sky-high for Sutton took the turn into the back stretch with too much pressure on the gas pedal and his car spun around to face in the opposite direction. This left him out of the picture, Settlerman regaining his lead and staying there to the finish. Mahoney was right at the Seattle man's rear wheels to finish second with West Moore, Seattle, third and Ken Dorango, also of Seattle, in fourth place. Settlerman's time was 6.20 4-5, averaging a pace better than 50 miles an hour.

Next to Settlerman in the opening trials was Stan Mahoney, with a time of 23.15 seconds for the one turn around the track. Bert Sutton, Victoria, and Wes Moore, Seattle, tied for third place with times of 23.35 seconds. They flipped a coin to decide the third-place occupant, the local man losing.

CENTENNIALS WIN LAURELS

Defeat Metropolitans 6 to 5 to Annex Lower Island Softball Title

Manager Tuck Embrey's Centennial softballers won the lower island senior championship of the Sunday School Softball League Saturday evening at Savory Park when they nosed out the Metropolitans, 6 to 5, in the second and final game of the best-of-three series.

The Mets crashed the scoring column early, sending one runner the distance in the first frame and two more in the following session. It was not until the fifth inning that the Centennials got two runs and advanced into the lead in the seventh when they added two more. The eventual winners went two up on their opponents in the following session. Bob Dymond's Metropolitans rallied in the first of the ninth and scored two markers to knot the score, 5 to 5. Centennials won the ball game when they notched one run during their batting session in the final inning.

The win gave Tuck Embrey's boys possession of the Rev. E. F. Church Cup. The silverware was presented to the captain by Rev. A. E. Whitehouse.

Victoria's two ranking amateur golfers, Kenny Lawson and Jimmy Todd, were back at work today, after a trip to Ottawa for the Willingdon Cup interprovincial team match and the Canadian amateur championship. The boys arrived home pretty tired, but stated they had enjoyed their eastern invasion.

Todd, holder of the city championship, turned in a smart exhibition to reach the semi-finals of the national event.

Following the Canadian tourney the boys proceeded to St. Paul to witness the final of the $5,000 open.

MAT MATCH IS HALTED

Main Event of Local Show Brought to Sudden Finish at Midnight

The main event on Saturday night's mat show at the Tillamook gym, which brought together Chief Thunderbird, Saanich Indian, and Abe "King Kong" (Karkay), Syrian, exponent, had progressed to the third round when it was halted at midnight by the police owing to the Lord's Day Act.

The two performers were just beginning to make things interesting, and the fans were beginning to appreciate the bout when it came to its abrupt finish.

Harnam Singh, East Indian, was on deck again and took Glen Savage, Portland, into camp by a one-fall decision. The Portland man tapped the canvas in the third when the Hindu was suffering plenty of pressure on a surfboard hold.

Wrestling in the 147-pound division, George Lowe and Reg. Hopkins, local youths, grappled to a no-fall draw, while Victor "Legs" Hay got the only fall in the fourth round to emerge victorious over Bill Stein in the opener. Stein weighed 137 pounds, Hay 145.

The green courts of the Victoria Lawn Tennis Club settle back to regular routine again today with the departure of northern and southern California net stars on Saturday and the British Columbia tennis championships they carried with them.

With one exception the finals of the tournament ran true to form, favorites winning titles in nearly every section. The mild upset occurred when Mrs. Ruby Bixler of Los Angeles, former U.S. national girl's singles champion, defeated Virginia Wolfenden of Berkeley, defending titleholder, 6-4, 4-6, 7-5, in the women's singles final.

HOT BATTLE

The battle of the day was the men's singles final with Dick "Buster Keaton" Bennett of Berkeley, smashing and stroking his way to victory over Mort Ballagh of Los Angeles in a torrid five-set affair.

The Berkeley star was a cinch to take the first two sets, and he did, with scores of 6-2, 6-0. A little matter like a two-set disadvantage bothered Ballagh not a bit, and the tall dark boy leaned on his court-running service in the next two sessions to tie up the match.

Sizzlers from the service lineaced the corners or pushed Bennett back to the fence as the Los Angeles boy pulled up. All eyes in the crowd fixed themselves on the two as the fifth and final session began. Ballagh matched Bennett for the first game, then the Berkeley boy jumped into the lead with two games. Ballagh made the score read 3 to 2 on his own service, then Bennett won his, broke through his opponent's in the next and went on to win game, set and match on service.

COLLEGIATES WIN

Outwardly as fresh as a daisy after his gruelling singles match, Ballagh joined his team mate, Verne Hughes, of Long Beach, to whip Ray Casey and Jack Kramer, the Los Angeles combination in the men's doubles. The U.S.C. team of Hughes and Ballagh ran up two sets in spite of Casey's and Kramer's efforts to finish quickly as the portly southpaw wanted to catch a boat. The Los Angeles pair took the third set, however, to make matters more interesting, but could not hold the break in the final. The scores were 6-1, 6-4, 4-6, 6-4.

The women's doubles went to Mrs. Bixler and Dr. Esther Barstow with an easy victory over Cecile Miner, Long Beach, and Mrs. G. M. Gross, Berkeley. The scores were 6-0, 6-3. Miss Miner paired off with Verne Hughes to take the mixed doubles from Dr.

Burning of the Kent

On the first day of March in the year 1825, a sailing vessel called the Kent was passing through the Bay of Biscay when a gale started to blow from the southwest.

The flames were burning fiercely.

Tossing on the waves, the Kent would not have been in great danger if an officer had not gone below with a lantern. His purpose was to make sure that none of the heavy pieces of cargo in the hold had broken loose.

Part of the cargo was composed of rifles, cannon and gunpowder, but none of this seemed to be out of place. The only thing found to be wrong was that a cask of alcohol had been jarred from its place.

Suddenly the ship gave a lurch, and the officer dropped the lantern. It fell in such a way that the flame spread to alcohol which had leaked from the cask.

The alarm was given, and water was brought as quickly as could be, but the flames were out of control. Five hundred and seventy persons, including sailors and soldiers as well as passengers, were on board. All were in danger of death if the flames were not put out.

Captain Cobb gave an order to open the portholes of the lower decks. By so doing, he caused the hold to be flooded. This smothered the flames in some places, but they had spread so far. Inch by inch, they were eating toward the powder magazine.

There were enough lifeboats to hold about one-fourth of the people aboard. In a little while, the women and children would have been launched on the open sea, with a few men to row them. If a sailor had not gone up a mast and spied a brig, the Cambria.

In answer to signals of distress, the Cambria sailed near. While lifeboats were being lowered, she stood by, but kept far enough away to be safe from the expected explosion.

Three of the six lifeboats were tipped over in the excitement of launching them, and some persons aboard them were drowned. The other boats passed back and forth, each round trip taking about three-quarters of an hour. You may imagine the feelings of people on the Kent as they waited for boats to come back and get them.

The work of saving went on until darkness came. The flames were burning fiercely, and about 20 persons were still on board, when the powder magazine blew up.

After the terrific explosion, the captain of the Cambria gave his men orders to sail away. The noise of the explosion, however, brought another brig, the Caroline to the scene. A boat was lowered, and 14 persons who were clinging to the mast and other wreckage were saved. That made a total of almost 500 persons saved from the burning Kent.

SITUATIONS arise in life in which we cannot possibly have the thing we desire, nor do as we wish to do. As the old phrase puts it: "We are between the devil and the deep blue sea." Trouble and disaster on every side of us. The wise thing, then, in charting our course is to choose the lesser of the two evils and make the best of that.

The necessity of making this unhappy decision is now forced upon many women who have unfaithful husbands and who do not know which way to turn when their houses of happiness come tumbling down about their ears. Over and over and over, through harried days and sleepless nights, they thresh their problem: Shall they make a public scandal and bring shame on their husbands and their children? Shall they keep their bitter knowledge to themselves and eat out their hearts in silence? Shall they humble themselves before the Other Woman and beg her to give their husbands back to them? Should they forgive or get a divorce?

In the first flush of anger, jealousy and outraged wifedom every woman's impulse is to rush to the divorce court. She wants to make her husband suffer as he is making her suffer. She wants to cry aloud to the world his disloyalty and her wrongs. Every primitive instinct in her calls for revenge, and thousands of passion-mad wives do murder their husbands who have betrayed them. Millions of other wives avenge themselves upon flirtatious husbands by soaking them for alimony.

Now, I hold no brief for philandering husbands. They mostly deserve what they get, whether it is a stab in the breast or a wound in the pocketbook, but for all that, and with all his weaknesses thick upon his head, I think that a wife should consider long and carefully before she divorces a husband who has no other fault than a wandering foot.

In saying this, I do not minimize what she is called upon to endure. The shock of finding that her idol has feet of clay. The jealousy that tears her heart to tatters. The cruel disillusion of knowing the one she trusted has proven traitor to her. The broken faith, the lost illusions, the sweeping away of all that made their marriage beautiful and holy; the humiliation of knowing that another woman is preferred before her—the woman who has been through this has been through her Gethsemane, and nothing can ever heal her wounds or make her world as it was again.

But the thing has happened. The tragedy has befallen her and the thing with her is not to make a bad matter worse, but to choose the lesser of two evils, and to do the thing that will bring her the most comfort and happiness. And this she does not often find in breaking up her home.

For one thing, divorce is a luxury for the rich alone. If a woman has an independent fortune of her own, or if she has some talent by which she can make enough money to support herself and children in comfort, then she may leave a flirtatious husband if she chooses. But if she has no money and no ability to make even a dollar, and she has to go back and be dependent on her family, who resent the imposition, then; indeed, her last estate is worse than her first. She will wish many a time that she had stayed with the husband who gave her a good support, and shut her eyes to his little affairs.

Alimony is the hardest of all debts to collect. Many a woman who has lived in comfort and has had her pretty home, her car, her pleasant circle of friends, her little parties, finds that all her Decree Absolute has given her is the necessity for standing behind a counter all day, living in shabby lodgings, eating poor food and listening to her children's complaints. There are compensations in any marriage that gives a woman a good living.

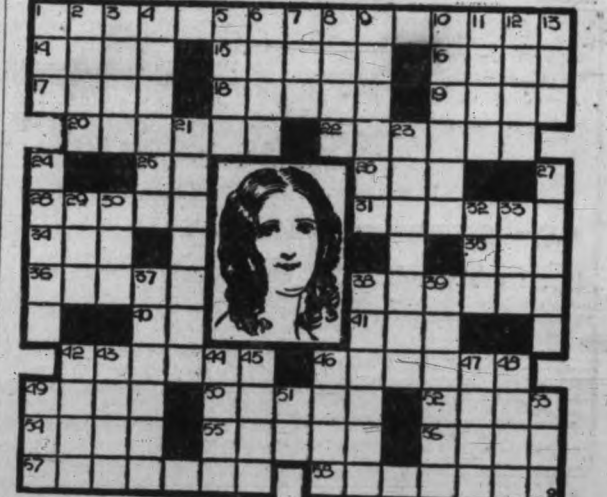

Divorce is not a cure-all for heart-hunger and loneliness. Nor does it automatically make a middle-aged woman a young and beautiful girl again, with a girl's gaiety and charm and chances of getting married. The divorced woman with children has no opportunity of marrying again unless a miracle happens to her, but the wife who holds on to her job almost always gets her wandering husband back again.

That is why, when a marriage goes bloomy, it is a wise woman who chooses the lesser of two evils, and sticks.

Anniversary Committee Chairman Voices Appreciation

Highly satisfied with the popularity of the various events on Victoria's seventy-fifth anniversary programme, Alderman T. W. Hawkins, general chairman, today voiced his appreciation to the public and those organizations which assisted materially in making the various functions the successes they were.

With but one major item left on the specific anniversary programme, a special Vancouver Island Day on Thursday or Friday of next week, the chairman reviewed the various events today.

"We of the celebration committee deeply appreciate the untiring work of those individuals and institutions who have co-operated with us in arranging and staging the various events on the anniversary schedule," Alderman Hawkins said today. "Particularly last week, when the city observed its official birthday, the support accorded by military and naval units, the Junior Chamber of Commerce, the Canadian Broadcasting Commission, sporting organizations, musical associations, various artists who contributed to the different programmes and all other individuals and groups who spared neither time nor effort to help the city, was worthy of the highest praise. The response of the public generally was splendid. We hope we have been able to merit the enthusiasm with which the various events have been received."

VANCOUVER ISLAND DAY

While the general committee worked today winding up financial details of the events which have already been staged, Alderman James Adam canvassed up-island cities to make arrangements for a Vancouver Island Day here on Thursday or Friday of next week. Tentative plans for the entertainment on that occasion call for an exhibition box lacrosse game between Nanaimo and Duncan.

Alderman Adam left yesterday to visit Duncan, Nanaimo, Alberni, Port Alberni, Courtenay, Ladysmith and Cumberland. He carried with him invitations from the city to the mayors and councils of the different centres to visit Victoria and participate in the festivities on the special up-island day.

Further details of the programme were left in abeyance, pending his return tomorrow. Suggestions made by the up-island centres will be considered in the drafting of the events.

COMING EVENTS

While official anniversary functions will close with the Vancouver Island Day, the public entertainment programme will continue throughout the month and extend into September with a Veterans and Children's Day at Beacon Hill Park on Labor Day and the Fall Fair at the Willows from September 11 to 18.

Tomorrow evening a Japanese concert, sponsored by the Junior Chamber of Commerce, will be presented on the Showboat. South Africa's lawn bowlers and the touring M.C.C. cricket team will lend further Empire flavor to the sports programme of the anniversary year with matches in the city starting next week. The celebration committee will honor the visiting bowlers at a luncheon in the Empress Hotel at 12.30 Monday, and the visiting cricketers at a dinner on Wednesday, August 25.

THREE ESCAPE AS CAR DROPS

Father, Mother and Child in Plunge Over Malahat

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Amcruz, Malahat, and their four-year-old daughter, narrowly escaped death in a 20-foot plunge over the Malahat in their automobile yesterday morning.

According to provincial police, Mr. and Mrs. Amcruz were badly shaken and suffered various injuries which were not of a serious nature. Their young daughter escaped unhurt.

Police reported the accident occurred between 10.30 and 10.45 a quarter of a mile south of the Scenic View. As Mr. Amcruz was driving north his machine skidded, bumped against the guard-log, pulled out one of the posts, then toppled over.

After rolling over twice, the flight of the car was stopped by trees in its path. The car was badly wrecked and the police said it was miraculous that the occupants were not more seriously hurt.

Mr. Amcruz suffered a scalp wound, while his wife was badly shaken and had cuts on her feet. They were given first aid treatment at the St. John's Ambulance Station on Cousen's Hill.

Sergeant Richard Harvey and Constable Frank Pomeroy attended the scene.

COLLISION NEARBY

In a collision which occurred near the same spot and within a few minutes of the Amcruz accident, cars driven by Alfred E. Rogerson, Mount Douglas, and Chow Kong, Fisgard Street, were badly damaged.

This collision occurred about 10.45 at a point between 200 and 300 feet from the Scenic View. Mr. Rogerson suffered cuts to his head, legs and feet, and three passengers, Miss Eileen O'Neill, Miss Nina Ferguson and Ronald Jack, received minor hurts. The latter three were taken to St. Joseph's Hospital from where they were released after medical examination.

Mr. Rogerson was attended to at the St. John's ambulance station.

Constable P. H. Brown responded to the call to the Provincial Police.

ELEVATOR SALE IS CALLED OFF

Crop Situation on Prairies Blamed By Winnipeg Man For Failure

Negotiations for the purchase of the grain elevator at Ogden Point have ended in failure, the mayor and council were advised this morning in a letter from Harvey Kavaner at the Carlton Club in Winnipeg.

Some weeks ago Mr. Kavaner put in an option for the purchase of the elevator, which has been idle for more than a year. The City Council several times gave him further time to complete arrangements. No money was paid over, however.

Mr. Kavaner says in his letter: "The crop situation on the prairies proved to be the problem, and the grain trade generally felt that the bulk, if not all this crop, would move eastward."

Joe North and his assistants collected $106.71 for the Kiddies' Christmas Fund during the parade Saturday evening.

In a series of raids on Vancouver Island over the week-end, members of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police Narcotic squad made five arrests involving sales and possessions of nearly 100 decks of opium.

M.C.C. TEAM IS DEFEATED

Touring English Cricketers Drop Match With Matthews Eleven

TORONTO.—The touring Marylebone Cricket Club team left for Winnipeg last night after being defeated by the big margin of 10 wickets in the concluding match of its visit to central Ontario. Hon. R. C. Matthews's Canadian eleven lowered the English team's colors Saturday, the defeat being the first recorded against the visitors since the tour opened last Monday.

Apart from clever performances by K. A. Sellar and C. H. Taylor, the touring eleven could do little against the strong Canadian team. In the two-day contest the home players made 288 and seven runs for no wickets, M.C.C. responding with 147 and 137.

Five matches were played during the week, the visitors being successful against a western Ontario eleven and drawing against two representative Toronto teams and United Colleges at Ridley College, St. Catharines.

Tired after their strenuous week, the players welcomed the two days' respite before they oppose the St. George Cricket Club of Winnipeg in a two-day game starting tomorrow.

The fielding and bowling strength of the Matthews team came as something of a revelation to the English cricketers. The Canadians kept the Englishmen in the field most of Friday, scoring 208 runs.

ball hitter—he's always able to hit the bad balls."

The other great hitters have their distinctive little flaws which haven't kept them from being dangerous. . . . SPEED THRILLS AS AUTO RACES STAGED

Tearing around the course at a speed just under the mile-a-minute mark, Setteman won the helmet dash of three times round. His time was 1:10.35. Moore was second, Maroney third, the former being 7.25 seconds behind the winner.

In the first heat dash of five laps, in which the first four cars making the best times in the speed trials competed, Setteman won with a time of 2:22.5, with Mahoney second and Moore third. The winner got the inside position and kept out in front all the way. In the second heat dash over the same distance, which saw second place closely contested, Wes Moore, Seattle, won with a time of 2:44.5. Jimmy Symes, Olympia, Washington, was runner-up. Bill Pearson, Victoria, gave the Olympian plenty of opposition, however. The Victoria man was nosed out on the home stretch.

CAR CATCHES FIRE

There was considerable excitement when Jimmy Logie's machine caught on fire when he was contesting for honors in the third heat dash. The cause of the fire was due to an exploding exhaust. Many willing hands aided the driver to extinguish the flames with sand. He was unable to compete further in the show. Ken Dorango, Seattle, won this event, with Bob Wensley, Victoria, the runner-up.

Buddy Green, Victoria, captured the honors in the fourth heat dash, doing the five-lap run in 2:24.5 seconds. The only other entry in this race was Wally Colvin, who finished a lap behind the winner. His engine was missing badly.

Louie Michelin, driving an

Austin, purred around the circuit five times in 2:64.5 to emerge victorious in the event for 1½ litre cars. Jeff Reynolds, his only opponent, took an early lead but took a half turn off the corner halfway through the contest, which cost him the race.

Although it rained during the show and made the track slippery, the pilots went just as fast and the crowd enjoyed the added skidding.

Alderman Archie Wills, with a few appropriate remarks, officially opened the show. He paid tribute to those responsible for securing the fine track and putting on the races.

Officials of the meet, which was staged by the British Automotive Sports Association, were: Starters: Al Baker and Horace Ford; pit manager, Wally Colvin; timer, Hugh Francis, and recorder, Frank Gotch.
